Orders to Communists Are Encircle Enemy to Pound Way in for Victorious Kill

After Vital Hub

210,000 Red Troops Massed in Thrust on Retreating Forces

Tokyo, Jan. 6 (AP)—Red armies slashed deep toward the heart of South Korea today with a heavy thrust on the central rail and road hub of Wonju. Big guns boomed in the growing battle.

This was on the sickle side of the hammer and sickle offensive aimed to beat and cut retreating United Nations forces to death.

The main hammer is pounding at allied troops below Seoul; Wonju is 55 miles to the south-east.

Red China's troops and their satellite North Korean ally fought under new orders of Premier Kim Il Sung to "pursue, surround and destroy the enemy units."

The strategy is timeworn in military annals and fits the hammer and sickle design: Pound the enemy into an encircling trap for the kill.

Recoil Attack

Allied troops still fought stoutly, however, against overpowering force, and still have maneuvering space.

The mass of seven Red China armies—210,000 or more troops—thrust close to Wonju. Allied artillery and Red mortars duelled for the city's airstrip. Smoke and dust plumed into the sky. Communist rifle fire crackled from the western hills.

But A.P. Correspondent William C. Barnard said allied defenders still fought north of the key city at nightfall Saturday. While the Reds cut through Wonju's outer defenses, the Communists pounded at both ends of the allied line across South Korea.

Stop 1,000 Reds

One hammer force hit south of the twice-lost capital of Seoul, striking toward Suwon and its valuable airfield. Allied troops slammed a leading force of 1,000 Reds to a stand after a fight that raged throughout Saturday morning 10 miles south of Seoul. Allied artillery chewed through the Communist ranks, but survivors dug in, waiting for the Reds' main western force massed east of Seoul.

The other hammer force pounded in four regiment strength—12,000 men—south of Yongpo on the eastern front. Yongpo, on the Sea of Japan, is about six miles south of the Parallel 38 border.

Would Give Complete Control Wonju, 45 miles south of 38, lies almost at mid-point between Korea's coast lines. Roads fan out in all directions. Falls of the vital hub would give the Reds control of the heart of South Korea.

At Wonju, Communist mortar shells were falling on the airfield. The field had been closed to all planes except those evacuating wounded.

Correspondent Barnard said in his field dispatch that Chinese swarmed throughout the dominating hills west, north and east of the city.

Wonju is on flat ground in a bowl of rugged hills. Allied defenders manned a thin line at the city's northern fringe. Artillery shells from U.N. guns to the south whoomed over head.

Encircling Maneuver

But while the main body of the Communist force fought to take the key city, other Red troops wheeled southeast in a wide, encircling maneuver.

Eighth Army headquarters said an estimated 4,000 Red troops were moving about 15 miles southeast of Wonju. Other Communist units were spotted nearby.

On the east and west flanks, the Reds appeared to be gathering strength while advance units dealt slow feeler blows testing allied troop dispositions.

A U.N. patrol reported 16,000 Communists were massed five miles east of Seoul waiting orders to cross the frozen Han river.

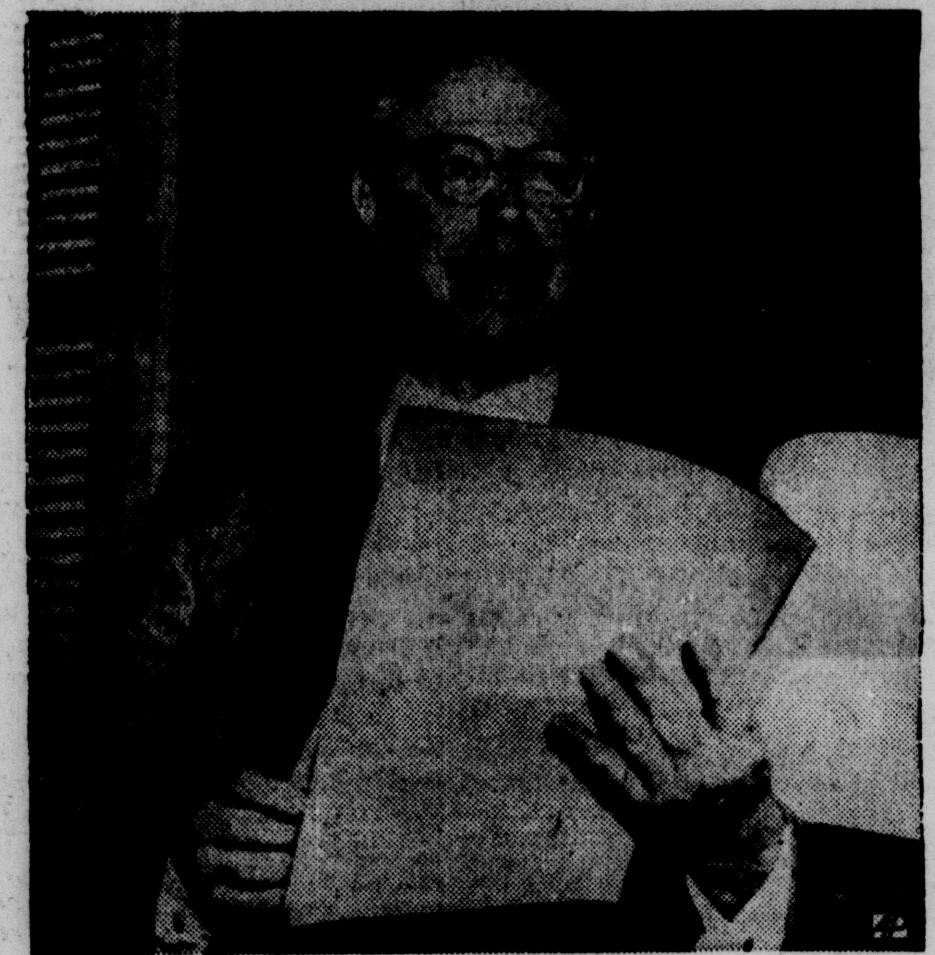

Stream Southward

Navy air reports told of heavy troop movements down the west and east coasts. General MacArthur's headquarters said Communists at least 2,150 vehicles loaded with men and supplies streamed southward for each of the last three nights. They were rolling along two main roads, one down the east coast and the other down the west.

Allied warplanes pounded the enemy transport. Maj. Gen. Earle E. Partridge said his Fifth Air Force pilots had destroyed 360 vehicles and 325 pack animals.

Sen. Taft After Foreign Policy Speech

Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) poses with his manuscript outside the upper chamber in Washington Jan. 5, after he delivered a major foreign policy speech. Taft declared the United States was "sucked" into the Korean war and challenged President Truman's asserted power to put American troops into a European defense force without approval first from Congress. ## Challenges Truman On Sending Troops To European Areas

Senator Taft Says President Has No Power to Commit American Soldiers to Defense Force Without Approval From Congress; Charges U. S. Involved in Korea Without Authority

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) has opened a new phase of the bitter foreign policy fight by challenging President Truman's contention that he has the authority to send additional troops to Europe.

Taft said in the Senate yesterday that the President has no power to commit American troops to a European defense force without approval first from Congress.

He asserted that Mr. Truman had involved the U. S. in the Korean war "without authority."

In his first foreign policy speech of the 82nd Congress, Taft said he is willing to commit "some limited number of American divisions" to North Atlantic defenses. But he said the Europeans must take the lead in forming such a force.

President Truman already has named Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as supreme commander of the projected international army. And the administration has laid plans to contribute an undisclosed number of troops.

Banks on Authority

Mr. Truman said at his Wednesday news conference that there was no question but that he has the authority to do this.

Taft said that instead of sending troops, the United States should build up powerful air and sea defenses, spending up to $400,000,000 a year for all military purposes.

He added: "If we send to Europe or promise to send within a few weeks of the beginning of the war, say a million and a half men, there is at least a reasonable chance that that army may be destroyed and may never return to this country."

Taft's reference to 1,500,000 men drew a challenge today from two Democrat senators.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) stuck to his assertion—made first in the Senate yesterday—that there is no responsible opinion in the government "which wishes to commit American boys to any such futile effort" as trying to match Communist manpower on the continent.

Senator Kilgore (D-W.Va.) said Taft was "proceeding from the wrong premise."

Insists On Congress Acting In his speech, Taft said: "President Truman has no authority to do this."

U.N. Diplomats Try to Find Formula For Keeping Forum From Falling Apart

Lake Success, Jan. 6 (AP)—Non-Communist United Nations diplomats conferred behind closed doors today to find a formula that will keep the Far Eastern crisis from splitting their united front.

They agreed that their two immediate aims are: 1. To localize the Korean war. 2. To preserve the United Nations as a world forum.

They disagreed on how to achieve this.

The United States wants to take a strong position, formally condemn the Chinese Communists for their aggression in Korea and proceed from there.

No Alternative Proposal

A group of Asian countries, with at least tacit support from the British, fear that such a stand would lead to war with Red China and play into Russian hands. So far, however, they have not come forward with any concrete alternative proposal.

It is reported, however, that their plan is to seat Communist

More Bonds Cashed Than Bought in '50

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Americans last year cashed in more Series E Savings Bonds than they bought, Treasury records disclosed today.

That's happened only once, in 1946, since the bonds were put on sale in May, 1941.

Cash-ins totaled $3,912,050,000 last year, topping purchases by $243,964,000. In 1949 purchases ran $759,702,000 above redemptions.

None of the cashed E Bonds had been held the full ten years required to pay off their face amount.

Murder Victim's Clothes Are Found Near Kingston City

Shortsville Man, Held as Slayer, Assists Police in Hunt for Articles

Clothing belonging to an Ontario county murder victim and his accused killer was found along a state highway near Kingston Friday afternoon.

The accused man, Frank H. Webster, 20, of Shortsville, accompanied Ontario county authorities to this vicinity and assisted them in locating the clothing which he had dumped from an automobile.

Webster faces Ontario county grand jury action on a first degree murder charge. He is accused of murdering Charles Lennox, 52, of Rochester, on December 5 in the town of Gorham.

Positive Identification

The clothing was found about 10 miles from Kingston. Authorities refused to disclose the exact location where the articles had been discarded, but Anthony Cere, chief county detective of the Ontario county district attorney's office, said that positive identification of the articles has been made.

After accompanying law enforcement officials to the location Friday afternoon, Webster was housed in the Ulster county jail in Kingston overnight. He was taken to the location again today in an attempt to find more items, and was scheduled to be taken back to the Ontario county jail this afternoon.

Second Local Angle

It was the second time within two weeks that a murder developed an Ulster county angle. Last week the investigation of the Brookline murder mystery in Brooklyn led to Saugerties, and only yesterday District Attorney Miles F. McDonald of Brooklyn announced that the murder victim in that case had been positively identified as Dorothy Martin, 37, daughter of the Saugerties postmaster.

The Ulster county end of the Lennox murder investigation developed from questioning of Webster and after investigation locally by Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly and Trooper Donald J. Vredenburg.

More Power on Sea

The navy started the war in the Far East with 13 cruisers. Last October orders were given to get two more cruisers ready for action. Navy officials said today that undoubtedly more cruisers will be taken from the reserve to provide for a balanced sea-going fighting force.

Current plans also call for about 245 destroyers of all types, compared with the 142 on the active list last June. At that time 10 additional destroyers were being used as training ships, five new types were being built, and 199 were in reserve.

Current plans call for a considerably smaller addition to the submarine fleet. Nine undersea craft of advanced design, were building last June and 73 were in active commission status. Two of the submarines now in the reserve will soon be returned to active service.

Navy officials explain that the number of old submarines to be returned to duty is being held down because of great improvements in design and performance that will be embodied in newer vessels.

Navy Expansion Plans Call For Twice as Many Carriers

Two Battleships, Several Cruisers, 100 Destroyers on Program

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—The navy is working on an expansion program calling for twice the number of aircraft carriers it had in operation at the outbreak of the Korean war.

The plan also calls for two additional battleships, several cruisers and about 100 more destroyers.

The navy announced yesterday that the 27,000-ton carrier Tarawa is being taken out of mothballs and that the battleship Wisconsin will be ready for active duty in a few months.

In answer to questions, Defense Department officials told a reporter today that the expansion program proposes increasing the carrier fleet to 28 or 29 as compared to the 14 in service last June.

They added that the carrier force will be composed of nine 45,000-ton and 27,000-ton vessels and about 17 smaller carriers.

Urges No Letup

Moscow, Jan. 6 (AP)—Pravda reported today that North Korean Communist Premier Kim Il Sung has urged his troops to "pursue, surround, and destroy the enemy units" and give them no breathing spell. Kim ordered a salute to the Red capture of Seoul and charged the Americans with destroying the city and executing many Korean patriots, the Communist Party newspaper said.

Eisenhower Leaves to Take Command of Defense Forces

Three Rail Groups Expected to Tell Europe It Must Speed Up War Preparation, Furnish Troops

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower leaves for Europe today to take up his unprecedented peacetime command of international defense forces in western Europe.

Before leaving, he was scheduled to top off a week-long round of conferences with diplomatic and military officials by a meeting with President Truman.

Following their talk Mr. Truman was expected to see the general off at the Washington Airport.

Eisenhower is expected to tell the Europeans that while the U. S. is prepared to do its full share toward making western forces strong enough to repel Communist aggression, their nations also will have to do all within their power to supply men, money and materials.

American officials so far feel that the scope and speed of military preparations in western Europe generally are far from adequate.

Eisenhower plans to visit the capitals of all the European members of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Civil Defense Workers Ready To Check on Refuge in City

Next week every householder in this city will be asked how many evacuees he can take in if the New York metropolitan area is bombed.

A group of more than 100 workers will canvass every ward in the city, starting Monday, to compile a list of homes where homeless persons can be housed.

Hubert A. Richter, deputy civil defense director in charge of evacuation and war relief, is preparing to keep a card index listing locations, the number and types of evacuees to be accepted.

Kingston should be prepared to take 4,000 persons should war be brought to this country. Presumably, the evacuees would come mostly from New York city, considered a most likely target area.

May Select Persons

Householders will be given the opportunity to select the persons to be sheltered in their homes, as well as setting the number he will accept. He can list preference as to sex, age, and, if he wishes, race and religion.

Although at the present time there is no provision for financial compensation to those who accept evacuees, state and federal governments plan to stockpile food items for distribution to homes where extra persons must be fed. Bedding also will be available for those who need it in order to provide for the evacuees.

Will Screen Evacuees

In event of a bombing, evacuees will be thoroughly screened, examined and processed to avoid any possible contamination of local areas from radio-active materials or disease. From a health standpoint, it will be "perfectly safe" to take in an evacuee, Richter stressed.

Local persons with relatives living in the metropolitan area may take these relatives in rather than accepting unknown evacuees. This fact, along with names and address of the relatives, can be listed on the cards that will be carried by the canvassers next week.

Moral Duty To Help

In urging generous response to this canvass, Richter said that residents of this area "can thank God that we are not in a primary target area." In return, it is "our patriotic and moral duty" to help those who are less fortunate.

Would Supersede Laws in Seizing Property, Essential Goods and Conscription Men

To Fix Penalties

Agency Would Have More Power Than War 2 Council

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 6 (AP)—Governor Dewey will ask the Legislature Monday night to approve creation of an all-powerful state defense council to prepare New York for atomic attack.

The bill would give the 23-member council, to be headed by the governor, potential power to supersede state laws and seize and use private property, conscript manpower and ration essential goods and services. It also would fix jail sentences and fines for persons willfully violating any regulation or order decreed under it.

Dewey's counsel Lawrence E. Walsh, said it was "the most sweeping in the subject matter covered" of any bill ever offered to New York's Legislature.

He noted however, that all of the powers proposed for the council could be exercised by the governor under existing law, in the event of an emergency or threat of an emergency.

"This makes it clear," he added, "that we don't have to wait for a bomb to fall to exercise these powers."

The council would be similar to the state's 20-member war council of World War 2, which expired after hostilities ended. But the new agency would have vastly expanded authority.

The voluminous bill will be introduced by G.O.P. Assemblyman Frank J. Becker of Lynbrook, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on military law revision. The committee and Dewey's counsel drew the measure.

Need Sweeping Powers

Dewey said in his annual message to the Legislature Wednesday that a defense council with sweeping powers was necessary to prepare the state "to meet the most savage possible attack that can be launched against us."

He added that the council should have enough power to permit "prompt, effective action without the necessity of keeping the Legislature continuously in session."

The Democratic minority leaders have pledged cooperation with the Republicans in promoting a defense program.

In addition to creating the new council, the bill would continue the state's present Civil Defense Commission, with expanded power and additional members. It also would direct the existing state agencies to take specified roles in preparing for the worst possible catastrophe.

Under its provisions, the council could order—or delegate its authority to so order—all local governments to prepare detailed defense plans and recruit the necessary personnel, such as air-raid wardens.

Not 'Martial Law'

Walsh emphasized that the measure did not grant powers that could be construed as "martial law," and that all of the powers, if used, were subject to court review. He said the bill would not "touch" the courts or the power of the Legislature, and would maintain existing civil government.

Walsh said the bill was "precise" in setting up restrictions under which the general powers could be administered.

He said the measure could be changed from year to year, or even from month to month when the Legislature was in session, as emergency conditions improved or worsened.

The bill, entitled the "New York State Defense Emergency Act," would be effective until July 1, 1952.

Walsh said the basic theory of the measure was to give the necessary powers first to existing agencies, such as the Civil Defense Commission and various units of the state government. Except for the governor, the defense council would be the "final judge" over the entire preparedness operation.

Provisions

The defense council could supersede state law during the defense emergency to provide for:

1. "Unanticipated or emergency needs."

2. "The mobilization and efficient utilization of all of the resources and facilities in the state in aid of the defense effort."

3. "The orderly conduct of public or private affairs in a manner consistent with the requirements of the defense effort."

In addition to the governor, members of the new defense council would be the lieutenant governor.

Navy Expansion Plans Call For Twice as Many Carriers

Two Battleships, Several Cruisers, 100 Destroyers on Program

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—The navy is working on an expansion program calling for twice the number of aircraft carriers it had in operation at the outbreak of the Korean war.

The plan also calls for two additional battleships, several cruisers and about 100 more destroyers.

The navy announced yesterday that the 27,000-ton carrier Tarawa is being taken out of mothballs and that the battleship Wisconsin will be ready for active duty in a few months.

In answer to questions, Defense Department officials told a reporter today that the expansion program proposes increasing the carrier fleet to 28 or 29 as compared to the 14 in service last June.

They added that the carrier force will be composed of nine 45,000-ton and 27,000-ton vessels and about 17 smaller carriers.

Eisenhower Leaves to Take Command of Defense Forces

Three Rail Groups Seek Better Terms Demands Follow Word That Railroads Are After New Rate Increase

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—The railway labor agreement recently worked out at the White House was stalled today by demands of three union groups for still better terms.

Ironically, the demands came on the same day the railroads announced they would seek a six per cent freight rate increase to offset their wage boost offers and other increased costs.

The new labor demands were made yesterday by regional leaders of three of the four major unions which reached a tentative agreement with the principal carriers Dec. 21. Government mediators said today they hoped the agreement still may be used as a basis for a final settlement.

Informed sources said the proposed rate increase would add some $400,000,000 to the railroads' anticipated revenues in 1951. D. P. Loomis, chairman of the carriers negotiating committee, had said at the conclusion of the White House talks that the agreement was a basis for a final settlement.

More Power on Sea

The navy started the war in the Far East with 13 cruisers. Last October orders were given to get two more cruisers ready for action. Navy officials said today that undoubtedly more cruisers will be taken from the reserve to provide for a balanced sea-going fighting force.

The program also calls for about 245 destroyers of all types, compared with the 142 on the active list last June. At that time 10 additional destroyers were being used as training ships, five new types were being built, and 199 were in reserve.

Current plans call for a considerably smaller addition to the submarine fleet. Nine undersea craft of advanced design, were building last June and 73 were in active commission status. Two of the submarines now in the reserve will soon be returned to active service.

Navy officials explain that the number of old submarines to be returned to duty is being held down because of great improvements in design and performance that will be embodied in newer vessels.

Urges No Letup

Moscow, Jan. 6 (AP)—Pravda reported today that North Korean Communist Premier Kim Il Sung has urged his troops to "pursue, surround, and destroy the enemy units" and give them no breathing spell. Kim ordered a salute to the Red capture of Seoul and charged the Americans with destroying the city and executing many Korean patriots, the Communist Party newspaper said.

May Select Persons

Householders will be given the opportunity to select the persons to be sheltered in his home, as well as setting the number he will accept. He can list preference as to sex, age, and, if he wishes, race and religion.

Although at the present time there is no provision for financial compensation to those who ac-

Expected to Tell Europe It Must Speed Up War Preparation, Furnish Troops

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower leaves for Europe today to take up his unprecedented peacetime command of international defense forces in western Europe.

Before leaving, he was scheduled to top off a week-long round of conferences with diplomatic and military officials by a meeting with President Truman.

Following their talk Mr. Truman was expected to see the general off at the Washington Airport.

Eisenhower is expected to tell the Europeans that while the U. S. is prepared to do its full share toward making western forces strong enough to repel Communist aggression, their nations also will have to do all within their power to supply men, money and materials.

American officials so far feel that the scope and speed of military preparations in western Europe generally are far from adequate.

Eisenhower plans to visit the capitals of all the European members of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Civil Defense Workers Ready To Check on Refuge in City

Next week every household in this city will be asked how many evacuees he can take in if the New York metropolitan area is bombed.

A group of more than 100 workers will canvass every ward in the city, starting Monday, to compile a list of homes where homeless persons can be housed. Hubert A. Richter, deputy civil defense director in charge of evacuation and war relief, is preparing to keep a card index listing locations, the number and types of evacuees to be accepted.

Kingston should be prepared to take 4,000 persons should war be brought to this country. Presumably, the evacuees would come mostly from New York city, considered a most likely target area.

Will Screen Evacuees

In event of a bombing, evacuees will be thoroughly screened, examined and processed to avoid any possible contamination of local areas from radio-active materials or disease. From a health standpoint, it will be "perfectly safe" to take in an evacuee, Richter stressed.

Local persons with relatives living in the metropolitan area may take these relatives in rather than accepting unknown evacuees. This fact, along with names and address of the relatives, can be listed on the cards that will be carried by the canvassers next week.

Moral Duty To Help

In urging generous response to this canvass, Richter said that residents of this area "can thank God that we are not in a primary target area." In return, it is "our patriotic and moral duty" to help those who are less fortunate.

Would Supersede Laws in Seizing Property, Essential Goods and Conscription Men

To Fix Penalties

Agency Would Have More Power Than War 2 Council

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 6 (AP)—Governor Dewey will ask the Legislature Monday night to approve creation of an all-powerful state defense council to prepare New York for atomic attack.

The bill would give the 23-member council, to be headed by the governor, potential power to supersede state laws and seize and use private property, conscript manpower and ration essential goods and services. It also would fix jail sentences and fines for persons wilfully violating any regulation or order decreed under it.

Dewey's counsel Lawrence E. Walsh, said it was "the most sweeping in the subject matter covered" of any bill ever offered to New York's Legislature.

He noted, however, that all of the powers proposed for the council could be exercised by the governor under existing law, in the event of an emergency or threat of an emergency.

"This makes it clear," he added, "that we don't have to wait for a bomb to fall to exercise these powers."

The council would be similar to the state's 20-member war council of World War 2, which expired after hostilities ended. But the new agency would have vastly expanded authority.

The voluminous bill will be introduced by G.O.P. Assemblyman Frank J. Becker of Lymbrook, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on military law revision. The committee and Dewey's counsel drew the measure.

Need Sweeping Powers

Dewey said in his annual message to the Legislature Wednesday that a defense council with sweeping powers was necessary to prepare the state "to meet the most savage possible attack that can be launched against us."

He added that the council should have enough power to permit "prompt, effective action without the necessity of keeping the Legislature continuously in session."

The Democratic minority leaders have pledged cooperation with the Republicans in promoting a defense program.

In addition to creating the new council, the bill would continue the state's present Civil Defense Commission, with expanded power and additional members. It also would direct various existing state agencies to take specified roles in preparing for the worst possible catastrophe.

Under its provisions, the council could order—or delegate its authority to so order—all local governments to prepare detailed defense plans and recruit the necessary personnel, such as air-raid wardens.

Not 'Martial Law'

Walsh emphasized that the measure did not grant powers that could be construed as "martial law," and that all of the powers, if used, were subject to court review. He said the bill would not "touch" the courts or the power of the Legislature, and would maintain existing civil government.

Walsh said the bill was "precise" in setting up restrictions under which the general powers could be administered.

He said the measure could be changed from year to year, or even from month to month when the Legislature was in session, as emergency conditions improved or worsened.

The bill, entitled the "New York State Defense Emergency Act," would be effective until July 1, 1952.

Walsh said the basic theory of the measure was to give the necessary powers first to existing agencies, such as the Civil Defense Commission and various units of the state government. Except for the governor, the defense council would be the "final judge" over the entire preparedness operation.

Provisions

The defense council could supersede state law during the defense emergency to provide for:

1. "Unanticipated or emergency needs."
2. "The mobilization and efficient utilization of all of the resources and facilities in the state in aid of the defense effort."
3. "The orderly conduct of public or private affairs in a manner consistent with the requirements of the defense effort."

In addition to the governor, members of the new defense council would be the lieutenant governor, the mayor of New York City, and the mayor of Albany.

Baby Weighs Pound

Miami, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)—A baby boy weighing slightly more than one pound born Thursday to a winter visitor for New York city is working up an appetite in his incubator for his first meal.

The surprise baby, three months premature, was born to Mrs. Alvin Queen of (6837-108th street, Forest Hill, N.Y.) New York, who with her husband, an insurance broker, were vacationing in a Miami Beach hotel.

The birth of a son was not included in the vacation schedule, the father said. Doctors estimated the child weighed about one pound, three ounces.

The weight is unofficial as doctors won't permit him to be weighed or even touched. The child measures 16 inches in length. Despite his early arrival, the young man was reported flourishing and is scheduled to begin a two-hour schedule of feeding with an eye dropper.

Baby Weighs Pound

Miami, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)—A baby boy weighing slightly more than one pound born Thursday to a winter visitor for New York city is working up an appetite in his incubator for his first meal. The surprise baby, three months premature, was born to Mrs. Alvin Queen of (6837-108th street, Forest Hill.) New York, who with her husband, an insurance broker, were vacationing in a Miami Beach hotel. The birth of a son was not included in the vacation schedule, the father said. Doctors estimated the child weighed about one pound, three ounces. The weight is unofficial as doctors won't permit him to be weighed or even touched. The child measures 16 inches in length. Despite his early arrival, the young man is scheduled to begin a two-hour schedule of feeding with an eye dropper.

Modern Lighting

In the newer homes charming lighting effects may be installed by use of indirect lighting at the junction of the ceiling and the walls. This will provide a soft light for the entire room with no concentration in any point and hence no shadows. The light is thrown up on to the ceiling and reflected down into the room.

Television Built In

Television has become such an important part of home life that one New York builder is constructing a group of houses with built-in receivers and screens.

The Mississippi River has an average width of more than one-half mile for its entire length of more than 4000 miles.

THE YPSILANTI

No Storage Problems In This Spacious Home

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Three
Closets ..... Eight
Cubage - House ..... 15,800
Garage ..... 3,500
Dimensions ..... 30' x 25'

Measuring only 30' x 25', the "Ypsilanti" is a one and a half story house with a cubic footage of 15,800 feet. Including the breezeway, which can be closed in, and the 20'x10' garage, overall measurements of the building are 48' x 60' minimum lot would be required.

Because of the large gable at the left, which adds height to the house, the "Ypsilanti" is ideal for a street level lot. The gable is stepped forward, too, providing some shelter for the front door. A large picture window, flanked by smaller windows, occupies the first floor of the gable end while the porthole window lights the storage space upstairs. Louvers at either end of the house provide Summer ventilation.

In the illustration, the side-walls are covered with white clapboards although brick, stone or shingles could be used. A darker color on the shutters provides an attractive contrast. In the front hall, opposite the front door, are the stairs to the second floor. There is a good sized coat closet conveniently located at the front of these stairs. An archway at the left leads to the living room while another on the right leads to the dining room.

Flush Mantel Fireplace
A flush mantel fireplace, flanked by windows on the side wall, is the center of attraction in the living room. This room can be either 16'x13' or 26'x13' 4" in dimensions, depending upon the owner's wishes. The longer room is made possible by omitting the partition between the present living room and the den.

Three front windows and the side window provide good light and cross ventilation. The two long walls will easily accommodate large furniture pieces.

If the partition is retained, a door in the back wall provides entrance to the den or bedroom which measures 13'4" x 9'6". Two windows in this room also provide good light and ventilation.

Another door in the den or rear bedroom opens into the straight hallway in which there are two closets—one located between doors and the other between the door to the cellar stairs and the kitchen.

On the left, off the hall, is the all modern kitchen which measures 11'8" x 10'. The stove is located at the end of the convenient U-shaped work counter which is complete with overhead and underneath cupboard; the sink is centered in the middle of this area, beneath double windows. At the other end of the U, next to the porch door, would be a good location for the refrigerator. The front inside wall is blank except for a swinging door leading to the dining room, and could be used as the location for a breakfast nook.

Glassed-In Porch
Measuring 10' x 8', the porch can be screened or glassed in according to the home owner's desires. A door opposite the kitchen door, provides a short cut to the garage. In the 20'x10' garage there is a window near the back and plenty of overhead storage space for screens and storm windows.

A handy closet is located in the inside wall of the 12' x 10' dining room; there is a china closet in the corner near the front window. A second window makes the room bright and also provides good cross ventilation. There is plenty of unbroken wall space for good furniture arrangement. The shed dormer across the back of the house provides full headroom and makes possible full windows in the rear of each of the second floor bedrooms at either end. A deep linen closet is at the right end of the stairs. The bedroom on the right is 13' x 10'. A huge closet is placed on the inside wall, back to the stair well. Two built-in sets of drawers are in the front wall. Storage space is provided in the back wall in the corner made by the dormer. Double windows on the side and a single window in the back provide ample light and ventilation.

Measuring 13'4" x 13', the master bedroom is located on the left of the house. Two closets on the inside wall are located back to the bathroom. Built-in draw-

Thermostatic Valve Regulates Shower

The sudden change from warm to icy cold water does not annoy the home owner who has a thermostatic shower in his bathroom. This shower has a thermostatic mixing valve which prevents sudden changes in water temperature. Another type of shower head gaining considerable popularity with the men of the home is that which gives a snappy needle spray. This shower provides a pleasant and invigorating bath at an actual saving of one-half the water used in the conventional head.

Plans Available
Complete plans and specifications for the "Ypsilanti," and other houses in this series, are available at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

Cracked Plaster Needs Paint Care

Painting over plaster that is lined with "map" or "hairline" cracks requires a special knowledge of paints, for if ordinary paint is applied, the oils are drawn into the cracks, thus changing the color and producing a streaked job. Painting authorities recommend brushing the cracks through sealing with some pigmented sealer or flat paint with varnish added. Either of these materials used should be brushed into and over the cracks thoroughly without thinning. When thinned their efficacy will be reduced.

After the first coat is dry any good flat paint may be applied and the cracks will no longer be visible. Hair-line cracks are too small to be dug out and repaired, leaving this the most practical method of treatment. Larger cracks cannot be sealed satisfactorily, however, and should be repaired.

Furniture Without Legs

Make the child's room easy to clean by eliminating, wherever possible, furniture with legs. Suspended desks and dressing tables do not have to be moved for sweeping. Legless bookcases and chests can stand squarely on the floor so that there is no space beneath them where dust can accumulate.

New Type Drop Cloths

The use of drop cloths is absolutely necessary for the protection of floors and furniture when a room is being painted. In addition to the familiar fabric drop cloths, new types are available which are made of special paper material which is impregnated with a wax or resin. They are dust and liquid proof and it's easy to dispose of them.

Inadequate Stirring Might Waste Paint

Inadequately stirred paint frequently causes unsatisfactory results. The painter depending upon stick stirring of a keg of paint, often fails to achieve the proper blending of oil and pigment so vitally important to the body, flow and color of the coating. In addition, several ounces of pigment are likely to be left adhering to the bottom of the keg which is sheer waste.

There is an efficient triple-action agitator or mixer now on the market which is designed to eliminate mixing troubles. It is usable in steel drums or wooden barrels and is distinctive in that it develops maximum centrifugal motion plus splash, operating by means of a swivel grip handles.

This eliminates blistering of hands—especially when a keg of paint has stood for a long time, settling and hardening at the bottom.

Entrance to Garage

The house that has an attached garage should have a connecting door to the house. A closet near this door is a great convenience, for motor coats, robes, gloves, golf bags, etc., may be placed there for convenience and safe-keeping.

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Three
Closets ..... Eight
Cubage - House ..... 15,800
Garage ..... 3,500
Dimensions ..... 30' x 25'

Measuring only 30' x 25', the "Ypsilanti" is a one and a half story house with a cubic footage of 15,800 feet. Including the breezeway, which can be closed in, and the 20'x10' garage, overall measurements of the building are 48'. A 60' minimum lot would be required.

Because of the large gable at the left, which adds height to the house, the "Ypsilanti" is ideal for a street level lot. The gable is stepped forward, too, providing some shelter for the front door. A large picture window, flanked by smaller windows, occupies the first floor of the gable end while the porthole window lights the storage space upstairs. Louvers at either end of the house provide Summer ventilation.

In the illustration, the side-walls are covered with white clapboards although brick, stone or shingles could be used. A darker color on the shutters provides an attractive contrast.

In the front hall, opposite the front door, are the stairs to the second floor. There is a good sized coat closet conveniently located at the front of these stairs. An archway at the left leads to the living room while another on the right leads to the dining room.

Flush Mantel Fireplace
A flush mantel fireplace, flanked by windows on the side wall, is the center of attraction in the living room. This room can be either 15'x13' or 25'x13' 4" in dimensions, depending upon the owner's wishes. The longer room is made possible by omitting the partition between the present living room and the den.

Three front windows and the side window provide good light and cross ventilation. The two long walls will easily accommodate large furniture pieces.

If the partition is retained, a door in the back inside wall provides entrance to the den or bedroom which measures 13'4" x 9'8". Two windows in this room also provide good light and ventilation.

Another door in the den or rear bedroom opens into the straight hallway in which there are two closets—one located between doors and the other between the door to the cellar stairs and the kitchen.

On the left, off the hall, is the all modern kitchen which measures 11'6" x 10'. The stove is located at the end of the convenient U-shaped work counter which is complete with overhead and underneath cupboard; the sink is centered in the middle of this area, beneath double windows. At the other end of the U, next to the porch door, would be a good location for the refrigerator. The front inside wall is blank except for a swinging door leading to the dining room and could be used as the location for a breakfast nook.

Glassed-In Porch
Measuring 10' x 8', the porch can be screened or glassed in according to the home owner's desires. A door opposite the kitchen door, provides a short cut to the garage. In the 20'x10' garage there is a window near the back and plenty of overhead storage space for screens and storm windows.

A handy closet is located in the inside wall of the 12' x 10' dining room; there is a china closet in the corner near the front window. A second window makes the room bright and also provides good cross ventilation. There is plenty of unbroken wall space for good furniture arrangement.

The shed dormer across the back of the house provides full headroom and makes possible full windows in the rear of each of the second floor bedrooms at either end. A deep linen closet is at the right end of the stairs.

The bedroom on the right is 13' x 10'. A huge closet is placed on the inside wall, back to the stair well. Two built-in sets of drawers are in the front wall. Storage space is provided in the back wall, in the corner made by the dormer. Double windows on the side and a single window in the back provide ample light and ventilation.

Measuring 13'4"x13', the master bedroom is located on the left of the house. Two closets on the inside wall are located back to the bathroom. Built-in draw-

Thermostatic Valve Regulates Shower

The sudden change from warm to icy cold water does not annoy the home owner who has a thermostatic shower in his bathroom.

This type shower has a thermostatic mixing valve which prevents sudden changes in water temperature.

Another type of shower head gaining considerable popularity with the men of the home is that which gives a snappy needle spray. This shower provides a pleasant and invigorating bath at an actual saving of one-half the water used in the conventional head.

Plans Available
Complete plans and specifications for the "Ypsilanti," and other houses in this series, are available at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

Cracked Plaster
Needs Paint Care

Painting over plaster that is lined with "map" or "hairline" cracks requires a special knowledge of paints, for if ordinary paint is applied, the oils are drawn into the cracks, thus changing the color and producing a streaked job.

Painting authorities recommend bridging the cracks through sealing with some pigmented sealer or flat paint with varnish added. Either of these materials used should be brushed into and over the cracks thoroughly without thinning. When thinning their efficacy will be reduced.

After the first coat is dry any good flat paint may be applied and the cracks will no longer be visible.

Hair-line cracks are too small to be dug out and repaired, leaving this the most practical method of treatment. Larger cracks cannot be sealed satisfactorily, however, and should be repaired.

Furniture Without Legs

Make the child's room easy to clean by eliminating, wherever possible, furniture with legs. Suspend the desk and dressing table firmly from the wall so that they do not have to be moved for sweeping. Legless bookcases and chests can stand squarely on the floor so that there is no space beneath them where dust can accumulate.

New Type Drop Cloths

The use of drop cloths is absolutely necessary for the protection of floors and furniture when a room is being painted. In addition to the familiar fabric drop cloths, new types are available which are made of special paper material which is impregnated with a wax or resin. They are dust and liquid proof and it's easy to dispose of them.

Inadequate Stirring Might Waste Paint

Inadequately stirred paint frequently causes unsatisfactory results. The painter depending upon stick stirring of a keg of paint, often fails to achieve the proper blending of oil and pigment so vitally important to the body, flow and color of the coating. In addition, several ounces of pigment are likely to be left adhering to the bottom of the keg which is sheer waste.

There is an efficient triple-action agitator or mixer now on the market which is designed to eliminate mixing troubles. It is usable in steel drums or wooden barrels and is distinctive in that it develops maximum centrifugal motion plus splash, operating by means of a swivel grip handles.

This eliminates blistering of hands—especially when a keg of paint has stood for a long time, settling and hardening at the bottom.

Entrance to Garage

The house that has an attached garage should have a connecting door to the house. A closet near this door is a great convenience, for motoring coats, robes, gloves, golf bags, etc., may be placed there for convenience and safe-keeping.

TRAINING PATRIOTS

It has seldom been the fault of the high school student if in the past he has found American history boring. Its presentation too often has differed little from that offered in grade schools. Overmuch importance has been placed on wars and on the dates of presidential terms, and too little on the ideas underlying the trends which have made up our country's history.

The state of New York has recently sponsored an investigation into the teaching of United States history by a committee of six educators, headed by Professor Arthur M. Schlesinger of Harvard University. Their report recommended more emphasis on this subject, and a three-year course in it for high schools. Two methods were discussed, the chronological and the topical. Both have their points but it was made clear that with either the student must be led to see the present as an outgrowth of the past. Authors of textbooks in American history should be identified as conservative, radical or liberal in presenting their opinions, said the committee. The influence of European immigration on the texture of American life and on the national temper should be brought out, according to these educators.

Patriotism should not be a shallow emotion, but the expression of a deep appreciation of one's national roots. This feeling, to be authentic, has to be based on a thorough knowledge of the growth and development of the nation. The groundwork for true patriotism is laid in the schools.

A Charlie Chaplin television program has been canceled by a New York station. The station yielded to the demand of a veterans' group that the program be dropped on account of allegations that Chaplin has Communist leanings.

AN UNFORGOTTEN REFORM

The idea of granting the voting privilege at the age of 18 has not gained very much since Georgia reduced the voting age a few years ago. It is not dead, however. The legislative committee of the Congress of Industrial Organizations in New Jersey includes this in its list of desired reforms. This year's Democratic platform in Michigan contained a plank calling for allowing youths of 18 and up to vote. Though Michigan went Republican except for governor, it is not considered likely that the victorious party will take a political stand on such an issue; and the re-elected Governor G. Mennen Williams is expected to bring the proposal up.

Young men who are old enough to fight for their country are old enough to choose the administration which decides whether, or not they shall be called to arms. At 18 a young man now is much more mature than his father was at the same age, and still more so than his grandfather. It is a wonder that discerning politicians do not see that this would be a vote-making issue, as well as one with popular appeal.

HEMISPHERE TIE-UP

Among the projects for counting the nations who will stand together in the face of the current threat to their freedom is the State Department's recent request for a meeting of the foreign ministers of the twenty-one states in the western hemisphere. "What is at stake in the present situation, with respect to his inter-American community of ours, is the survival of all that it stands for in the world," said Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

No objection has been expressed on the part of our southern neighbors as to the meeting, and it is expected to go forward as desired by our State Department.

South America, Central America and Mexico are not often mentioned in current discussions of international affairs, but their cooperation in the face of danger is of great importance. Their interests are even more

THE GREAT DEBATE

For a decade, the administration has used every means within its power to suppress a public discussion of its foreign policy. The reason has been that that policy has been confused and full of error since 1933.

Mr. Roosevelt's first error was the recognition of Soviet Russia without an adequate study of the problems inherent in Marxian international relations, and the failure to exact guarantees of conduct, except the two which did not matter, namely, religious freedom in Russia and non-revolutionary activity in this country.

At the time when the Roosevelt-Litvinov negotiations occurred, it was obviously possible for the United States to state its terms, as Russia was the pleader for recognition.

Then followed a period of isolationism which lasted for five years until Munich, with the one interruption of the quarantine speech in Chicago, which was delivered to cover up the then offensive appointment of Hugo Black to the United States Supreme Court.

From this isolationism, which really commenced after Mr. Roosevelt blew up the London World Economic Conference (1933) that might have saved Europe but for his intervention, we became a participant, secret and open, in World War 2, which has now projected itself into World War 3. Such matters as the Quebec, Cairo, Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam conferences require understanding which can only come from public debate, but the administration has utilized such words as "isolationist," "fascist," "bipartisan foreign policy," "unity," "retreatism," "Gibberish" to deal with broad problems of public interest involving the lives of our sons and the welfare of future generations.

Thomas E. Dewey, Joseph P. Kennedy, Herbert Hoover, and John Foster Dulles have thus far joined the issue, as well as columnists and commentators.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey presented a view more like Dean Acheson's than his own, heretofore so often expressed. In the passion of our defeat at the hands of Soviet Russia in Korea, it is understandable that Governor Dewey would call for full support of the administration.

Certainly those who are responsible for errors costing American lives have no claim to undisputed, unscrutinized, blind acknowledgment of their leadership. Governor Dewey's speech was a confluence of the Vandenberg program of a bipartisan foreign policy, which it is doubtful that Senator Vandenberg would now pursue.

Mr. Hoover and Mr. Kennedy developed, each somewhat differently, the theme that God helps those who help themselves and that the United States might well follow His example. The nation's response to Mr. Hoover's speech started the administration, which respected by calling him "a realist," a false label designed to confuse the issue.

For instance, last Sunday, the "New York Times," in its "The News of the Week in Review," published a map purporting to represent Mr. Hoover's views which omitted from the areas that he would include in our defenses, Iceland, Greenland, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa.

Yet, this is what Mr. Hoover actually said: "We can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate); the other, on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. We can hold open the sea lanes for our supplies. And I devoutly hope that a maximum of cooperation can be established between the British Commonwealth and ourselves." Such an omission by the "New York Times" can only be regarded as a direct attempt to present the issue incorrectly.

John Foster Dulles's speech is one of the most difficult to analyze. After I read it carefully, I reached the conclusion that Mr. Dulles is not too far away from Mr. Hoover. Both agree that our lines have to be shortened; that we must not undertake more than we can accomplish. And it seems to me that Mr. Dulles was advising our Allies to do much for themselves.

At any rate, his speech, if it represented the State Department, was a retreat from the Truman policy of containment. Mr. Dulles is generally announced as a Republican adviser to the State Department, which is inaccurate because the Republican party has not officially so designated him. Mr. Truman made the choice. He is a State Department official.

However, until it is clear whether he speaks for himself, for the Republican party, or for the State Department, it is difficult to evaluate his speech.

OVERANXIETY ABOUT HEALTH

While still in my teens, I visited the uncle of a young friend. The uncle looked well, and the doctor said he was well, and yet he seemed to have so many things wrong with him. He had headaches, pains in the stomach and abdomen, was unable to sleep, had excessive perspiration and was unable to work. I chatted with him for a few minutes and after explaining his symptoms at length, he told me he was a hypochondriac, full of ailments and yet really nothing the matter with him.

"I know I've got something wrong with me because I have a family to support and my relatives are supporting them. If I could be free of my ailments, I'd go to work," he said.

In former times when a physician could find nothing wrong (organically) in a patient, the patient was told as frankly and told to get out and go to work, as work would give him an appetite, cause him to sleep well, and establish a regular bowel habit. Sometimes this advice helped but more often it did not.

In American Practice, Dr. John M. Lyon, Denver, Colorado, states that the treatment of the average patient with hypochondriasis is a difficult task. The first step in the treatment is an attempt to find out the causes of the symptoms. Hypochondriasis seems to be a psychological reaction that occurs when a person is unable to meet the competitiveness of everyday life, is loaded with more responsibilities than he can carry, or is faced with failure in a situation where he feels he should succeed. It is impossible for most people to admit that they can't take it, so an excuse must be found.

Failure to achieve success and happiness can be excused if a person is sick and this is the emotional trap in which the hypochondriac is caught or allows himself to be caught. He believes he is sick and knows that he cannot be accused of malingering (pretending to be sick). Those who fall into this trap are individuals who have a life-long habit of meeting stress situations with body reactions such as a timely accident or illness.

What about treatment? The doctor makes a thorough examination, doesn't just brush the patient off, and also allows him to tell about his symptoms. The physician admits that some kind of illness is causing symptoms, has patient return once or twice, and then explain how his fears upset his body processes and cause the symptoms present.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DEW FEARSON

PEARSON HD—Saturday, Jan. 6

Washington—Inside reason why a new railroad strike is brewing despite the supposed "settlement" announced to the public last month is friction between the railroad brotherhood chiefs and likeable, gladhanding White House assistant John Steelman.

The problem of avoiding a strike in the long drawn-out railroad dispute is one of the toughest in the nation. But things have become so tense between Steelman and the brotherhoods that they have sent word to Secretary of Defense Marshall recommending that Steelman be replaced with a topflight mediator such as Cyrus Ching or Anna Rosenberg.

What Ired was first of all a sentence they discovered in a strike-agreement memorandum which they negotiated after a grueling, all-night session at the White House last month. The line read: "If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules, they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for a final decision."

This, brotherhood chieftains interpreted, meant that Steelman would have a three-year job as a rail negotiator whether he remained on the White House staff or not.

Another thing that Ired them was Steelman's tactics in proposing that the two sides write down the points of near-agreement and take them home as a basis for final settlement. This so-called "memorandum of agreement" was typed by White House secretaries. Then, brotherhood chieftains said, they were flabbergasted to find that Steelman had called in the press, radio and newsmen. To them he announced: "I have reached a settlement. There will be no strike."

Gulps came from the labor side of the table, but no open protests. It was difficult to protest with the newsmen clicking.

However, this rancor has continued to boil below the surface and it looks as if the whole rail strike will have to be negotiated over again.

Filbustering Elevator

Even the elevators are catching the "filbuster" fever on Capitol Hill. One of them stalled for 15 minutes between floors of the House office building the other day. Meantime, its congressional passengers had a scary interlude as the air grew stuffier and stuffier and the operator struggled to get the circulation fan functioning.

Senator-elect Mike Monroney of Oklahoma helped to ease the tension in the jam-packed lift by wisecracking: "Don't anybody get excited. I've never heard of a politician suffocating from hot air."

The perspiring operator finally was able to pry the elevator door open far enough for the 14 passengers, including Congresswoman Reva Boone of Utah, to be raised to safety.

"The atmosphere in that elevator was the most nonpartisan I have witnessed since coming to Congress," observed Mrs. Boone. "None of us was thinking about politics. I can assure you. We were all jammed so close together that any fainting would have been done standing up."

War Plant Debate

Sessions of the Truman cabinet seldom feature explosions. But at last week's session, two members from New England, Attorney General McGrath of Rhode Island and Secretary of Labor Tobin of Massachusetts blew off home steam.

They were indignant because New England has been left out in the cold when it comes to location of new war plants—especially steel and aluminum plants.

Behind the McGrath-Tobin gripe is one of the most important economic debates going on inside the administration—a debate between big business on the one hand and a group of New England businessmen on the other, regarding the location of a government-sponsored steel mill at New London, Conn.

Simultaneous with the inside blowup, Sen. Brian McMahon of Connecticut staged a showdown conference with Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board. McMahon was arguing the cause of the New England Council, the business group which has organized the New England Steel Development Company.

Tax Concessions

which proposes to build a new plant near Morrisville in Bucks county, Pa. If the government authorizes a plant at New London, U. S. Steel will not be certified to build its plant in Pennsylvania. Or if, on the other hand, U. S. Steel is certified to construct a plant in Pennsylvania, the New England Council of Businessmen is out of luck. The financial club which the U. S. government can hold over either outfit is the "certification of amortization," a document from the Treasury permitting war contractors to write off their plant's capital investment in five years.

Arguing with NSRB Chairman Symington, Senator McMahon pointed out the need for diversifying the steel industry instead of concentrating it in the hands of a few big companies.

"This is the biggest bonanza you could possibly give to Big Steel," McMahon told Symington. "To let them amortize their investment in five years is manna from heaven. Naturally they are pulling heaven and earth to build new production capacity now rather than in peacetime when they can't amortize so quickly."

"You're just going to have a white elephant on your hands," Symington replied. New England, he said, would find itself with an empty steel mill after the war emergency was over.

"Let us worry about that," countered McMahon.

The Connecticut senator kept arguing until Symington finally picked up the telephone, called William Harrison, chairman of the National Production Authority, and told him to give the New England Council a certificate as soon as possible. This does not settle the argument, but it's a big step in favor of smaller business. There will be a lot more backstage wirepulling, however, before it is decided whether Big Steel or the New England Business Cooperative gets to build the war steel plant in Connecticut.

TRAINING PATRIOTS

It has seldom been the fault of the high school student if in the past he has found American history boring. Its presentation too often has differed little from that offered in grade schools. Overmuch importance has been placed on wars and on the dates of presidential terms, and too little on the ideas underlying the trends which have made up our country's history.

The state of New York has recently sponsored an investigation into the teaching of United States history by a committee of six educators, headed by Professor Arthur M. Schlesinger of Harvard University. Their report recommended more emphasis on this subject, and a three-year course in it for high schools. Two methods were discussed, the chronological and the topical. Both have their points but it was made clear that with either the student must be led to see the present as an outgrowth of the past. Authors of textbooks in American history should be identified as conservative, radical or liberal in presenting their opinions, said the committee. The influence of European immigration on the texture of American life and on the national temper should be brought out, according to these educators.

Patriotism should not be a shallow emotion, but the expression of a deep appreciation of one's national roots. This feeling, to be authentic, has to be based on a thorough knowledge of the growth and development of the nation. The groundwork for true patriotism is laid in the schools.

A Charlie Chaplin television program has been canceled by a New York station. The station yielded to the demand of a veterans' group that the program be dropped on account of allegations that Chaplin has Communist leanings.

AN UNFORGOTTEN REFORM

The idea of granting the voting privilege at the age of 18 has not gained very much since Georgia reduced the voting age a few years ago. It is not dead, however. The legislative committee of the Congress of Industrial Organizations in New Jersey includes this in its list of desired reforms. This year's Democratic platform in Michigan contained a plank calling for allowing youths of 18 and up to vote. Though Michigan went Republican except for governor, it is not considered likely that the victorious party will take a political stand on such an issue; and the re-elected Governor G. Mennen Williams is expected to bring the proposal up.

Young men who are old enough to fight for their country are old enough to choose the administration which decides whether, or not they shall be called to arms. At 18 a young man now is much more mature than his father was at the same age, and still more so than his grandfather. It is a wonder that discerning politicians do not see that this would be a vote-making issue, as well as one with popular appeal.

We've long been taught it's better to be safe than sorry, but he who gives too much thought to being safe will only be the sorrier.

HEMISPHERE TIE-UP

Among the projects for counting the nations who will stand together in the face of the current threat to their freedom is the State Department's recent request for a meeting of the foreign ministers of the twenty-one states in the western hemisphere. "What is at stake in the present situation, with respect to his Inter-American community of ours, is the survival of all that it stands for in the world," said Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

No objection has been expressed on the part of our southern neighbors as to the meeting, and it is expected to go forward as desired by our State Department.

South America, Central America and Mexico are not often mentioned in current discussions of international affairs, but their cooperation in the face of danger is of great importance. Their interests are even more

THE GREAT DEBATE

For a decade, the administration has used every means within its power to suppress a public discussion of its foreign policy. The reason has been that that policy has been confused and full of error since 1933.

Mr. Roosevelt's first error was the recognition of Soviet Russia without an adequate study of the problems inherent in Marxian international relations, and the failure to exact guarantees of conduct, except the two which did not matter, namely, religious freedom in Russia and non-revolutionary activity in this country.

At the time when the Roosevelt-Litvinov negotiations occurred, it was obviously possible for the United States to state its terms, as Russia was the pleader for recognition.

Then followed a period of isolationism which lasted for five years until Munich, with the one interruption of the quarantine speech in Chicago, which was delivered to cover up the then offensive appointment of Hugo Black to the United States Supreme Court.

From this isolationism, which really commenced after Mr. Roosevelt blew up the London World Economic Conference (1933) that might have saved Europe but for his intervention, we became a participant secret and open, in World War 2, which has now projected itself into World War 3.

Such matters as the Quebec, Cairo, Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam conferences require understanding which can only come from public debate, but the administration has utilized such words as "isolationist," "fascist," "bipartisan foreign policy," "unity," "realist," "Cathartism," to deal with broad problems of public interest involving the lives of our sons and the welfare of future generations.

Thomas E. Dewey, Joseph P. Kennedy, Herbert Hoover, and John Foster Dulles have thus far joined the issue, as well as columnists and commentators.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey presented a view more like Dean Acheson's than his own, heretofore so often expressed. In the passion of our defeat at the hands of Soviet Russia in Korea, it is understandable that Governor Dewey would call for full support of the administration.

Certainly those who are responsible for errors costing American lives have no claim to undiscussed, unscrutinized, blind acknowledgment of their leadership. Governor Dewey's speech was a continuance of the Vandenberg program of a bipartisan foreign policy, which it is doubtful that Senator Vandenberg would now pursue.

Mr. Hoover and Mr. Kennedy developed, each somewhat differently, the theme that God helps those who help themselves and that the United States might well follow His example. The nation's response to Mr. Hoover's speech startled the administration, which responded by calling him a "retreatist," a false label designed to confuse the issue.

For instance, last Sunday, the "New York Times," in its "The News of the Week in Review," published a map purporting to represent Mr. Hoover's views which omitted from the areas that he would include in our defenses, Iceland, Greenland, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa.

Yet, this is what Mr. Hoover actually said: "... We can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate); the other, on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. We can hold open the sea lanes for our supplies. And I devoutly hope that a maximum of cooperation can be established between the British Commonwealth and ourselves."

Such an omission by the "New York Times" can only be regarded as a direct attempt to present the issue incorrectly.

John Foster Dulles's speech is one of the most difficult to analyze. After I read it carefully, I reached the conclusion that Mr. Dulles is not too far away from Mr. Hoover. Both agree that our lines have to be shortened; that we must not undertake more than we can accomplish. And it seems to me that Mr. Dulles was advising our Allies to do much for themselves.

At any rate, his speech, if it represented the State Department, was a retreat from the Truman policy of containment. Mr. Dulles is generally announced as a Republican adviser to the State Department, which is inaccurate because the Republican party has not officially designated him.

Mr. Truman made the choice. He is a State Department official.

However, until it is clear whether he speaks for himself, for the Republican party, or for the State Department, it is difficult to evaluate his speech.

OVERANXIETY ABOUT HEALTH

While still in my teens, I visited the uncle of a young friend. The uncle looked well, and the doctor said he was well, and yet he seemed to have so many things wrong with him. He had headaches, pains in the stomach and abdomen, was unable to sleep, had excessive perspiration and was unable to work. I chatted with him for a few minutes and after explaining his symptoms at length, he told me he was a hypochondriac, full of ailments and yet really nothing the matter with him.

"I know I've got something wrong with me because I have a family to support and my relatives are supporting them. If I could be free of my ailments, I'd go to work," he said.

In former times when a physician could find nothing wrong (organically) in a patient, the patient was told so frankly and told to get out and go to work, as work would give him an appetite, cause him to sleep well, and establish a regular bowel habit. Sometimes this advice helped but more often it did not.

In American Practice, Dr. John M. Lyon, Denver, Colorado, states that the treatment of the average patient with hypochondriasis is a difficult task. The first step in the treatment is an attempt to find out the causes of the symptoms. Hypochondriasis seems to be a psychological reaction that occurs when a person is unable to meet the competitiveness of everyday life, is loaded with more responsibilities than he can carry, or is faced with failure in a situation where he feels he should succeed. It is impossible for most people to admit that they can't take it, so an excuse must be found.

Failure to achieve success and happiness can be excused if a person is sick and this is the emotional trap in which the hypochondriac is caught or allows himself to be caught. He believes he is sick and knows that he cannot be accused of malingering (pretending to be sick). Those who fall into this trap are individuals who have a life-long habit of meeting stress situations with body reactions such as a timely accident or illness.

What about treatment? The doctor makes a thorough examination, doesn't just brush the patient off, and also allows him to tell about his symptoms. The physician admits that some kind of illness is causing symptoms, has patient return once or twice, and then explain how his fears upset his body processes and cause the symptoms present.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

PEARSON HD—Saturday, Jan. 6
Washington—Inside reason why a new railroad strike is brewing despite the supposed "settlement" announced to the public last month is friction between the railroad brotherhood chiefs and likeable, gladhanding White House assistant John Steelman.

The problem of avoiding a strike in the long, drawn-out railroad dispute is one of the toughest in the nation. But things have become so tense between Steelman and the brotherhoods that they have sent word to Secretary of Defense Marshall recommending that Steelman be replaced with a topflight mediator such as Cyrus Ching or Anna Rosenberg.

What ired them was first of all a sentence they discovered in a strike-agreement memorandum which they negotiated after a grueling, all-night session at the White House last month. The line read: "If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules, they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for a final decision."

This, brotherhood chieftains interpreted, meant that Steelman would have a three-year job as a rail negotiator whether he remained on the White House staff or not.

Another thing that irred them was Steelman's tactics in proposing that the two sides write down the points of near-agreement and take them home as a basis for final settlement. This so-called "memorandum of agreement" was typed by White House secretaries. Then, brotherhood chieftains said they were flabbergasted to find that Steelman had called in the press, radio and newsmen. To them, he announced: "I have reached a settlement. There will be no strike."

Gulps came from the labor side of the table, but no open protests. It was difficult to protest with the newsmen clicking.

However, this rancor has continued to boil below the surface and it looks as if the whole rail strike will have to be negotiated over again.

Fillbusting Elevator
Even the elevators are catching the "fillbuster" fever on Capitol Hill. One of them stalled for 15 minutes between floors of the House office building the other day. Meantime, its congressional passengers had a scary interlude as the air grew stuffier and stuffier and the operator struggled to get the circulation fan functioning.

Senator-elect Mike Monroney of Oklahoma helped to ease the tension in the jam-packed lift by wisecracking: "Don't anybody get excited. I've never heard of a politician suffocating from hot air."

The perspiring operator finally was able to pry the elevator door open far enough for the 14 passengers, including Congressman Reva Bosone of Utah, to be raised to safety.

"The atmosphere in that elevator was the most nonpartisan I have witnessed since coming to Congress," observed Mrs. Bosone. "None of us was thinking about politics. I can assure you. We were all jammed so close together that any fainting would have been done standing up."

War Plant Debate
Sessions of the Truman cabinet seldom feature explosions. But at last week's session, two members from New England, Attorney General McGrath of Rhode Island and Secretary of Labor Tobin of Massachusetts blew off some steam.

They were indignant because New England has been left out in the cold when it comes to the location of new war plants—especially steel and aluminum plants.

Behind the McGrath-Tobin gripe is one of the most important economic debates going on inside the administration—a debate between big business on the one hand and a group of New England businessmen on the other, regarding the location of a government-sponsored steel mill at New London, Conn.

Simultaneous with the inside blowup, Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut staged a showdown conference with Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board. McMahon was arguing the cause of the New England Council, the business group which has organized the New England Steel Development Company.

Tax Concessions
Opposing this plant is most of "big steel," especially U. S. Steel,

which proposes to build a new plant near Morrisville in Bucks county, Pa. If the government authorizes a plant at New London, U. S. Steel will not be certified to build its plant in Pennsylvania. Or if, on the other hand, U. S. Steel is certified to construct a plant in Pennsylvania, the New England Council of Businessmen is out of luck. The financial club which the U. S. government can hold over either outfit is the "certification of amortization," a document from the Treasury permitting war contractors to write off their plant's capital investment in five years.

Arguing with NSRB Chairman Symington, Senator McMahon pointed out the need for diversifying the steel industry instead of concentrating it in the hands of a few big companies.

"This is the biggest bonanza you could possibly give to Big Steel," McMahon told Symington. "To let them amortize their investment in five years is manna from heaven. Naturally they are pulling heaven and earth to win new production capacity now rather than in peacetime when they can't amortize so quickly."

"You're just going to have a white elephant on your hands," Symington replied. New England, he said, would find itself with an empty steel mill after the war emergency was over.

"Let us worry about that," countered McMahon.

The Connecticut senator kept arguing until Symington finally picked up the telephone, called William Harrison, chairman of the National Production Authority, and told him to give the New England Council a certificate as soon as possible. This does not settle the argument, but it's a big step in favor of smaller business. There will be a lot more backstage wirepulling, however, before it is decided whether Big Steel or the New England Business Cooperative gets to build the war steel plant in Connecticut.

Music Group Ends Beethoven Series With 'Fidelio' Study

Beethoven's opera "Fidelio," which was first written in 1805, concluded the Y.W.C.A. Music Appreciation Group's study of the composer, when they met Thursday at the home of Mrs. John B. Sterley.

Mrs. Raymond Woodard introduced her review by citing Milton Cross' suggestions for enjoying opera, which include the ability for momentary belief in the "make believe" on the stage, coupled with the realization that the deliberate steps and gestures of opera are intended as synchronization with the orchestral accompaniment. Mr. Cross also suggests, she explained, achieving familiarity with the work before seeing it produced, by listening to recordings.

Mrs. Woodard then related the triumphant tale of "Fidelio," in which the loyal wife, Leonore, in an effort to help her husband, Florestan, who, for political reasons, has been imprisoned by the governor, Pizarro, disguises herself as the youth Fidelio. The disguised Leonore, the speaker continued, is then hired by a custodian of the jail where Florestan is imprisoned in the dungeon. She secures, through clever subterfuge, permission to take food to the prisoners, and learns of her husband's whereabouts.

"A touching scene," Mrs. Woodard explained, "occurs when upon Fidelio's entreaty the pained, undernourished prisoners are brought into the light and fresh air."

When Fidelio learns that the prime minister is about to inspect the prison, Mrs. Woodard resumed, the governor, fearing Florestan will give evidence against him decides he must die. But, as they confront each other in the dungeon, the disguised Leonore leaps between them, clutching a pistol in her hand. The great fanfare outside, the speaker continued, announces the arrival of the minister, Don Fernando, and Florestan's life is saved. The resounding "Leonore Overture" which is played at this point, the speaker told the group, contains the famous horn call, and brings the climax of the story.

After sitting judgment on the case, Mrs. Woodard concluded, Don Fernando gives Leonore the key to her husband's chains, and the opera ends on a note of triumph. The opera was illustrated for the group by Toscanini's recordings.

The second speaker, Mrs. Richard Boerker, revealed that "Fidelio" underwent numerous revisions until it was finally accepted by the critics in 1814, while the final version clearly illustrates Cherubini's effect upon Beethoven's style.

Mrs. William Ochs, and Mrs. Hans Decker were hostesses at the tea which followed. The group's next meeting, January 18, will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Schoonmaker, 202 West Chestnut street.

Bettv DeCicco Feted At Bridal Shower

White decorations were centered around a large wedding bell from which streamers of white satin led to the many gifts. A buffet style supper was served.

Guests attending were the Misses Anthony DeCicco, Joseph Radell, James Tyrrell, Charles DeCicco, Frank Buntin, Joseph Fautz, Anthony Gill, Frank Russo, Teresa Mayone, Victor DeCicco, James DeCicco, Alfred Minch, Ignazio Bosco, James Bionte and Charles Willit. Also the Misses Jeannine Reynolds, Lucy Pisano, Ruth Willit and Eleanor Gill.

Gilpatrick-McCutcheon Nuptials Set Jan. 9th

The approaching marriage was announced today of Miss Jeanne Marie McCutcheon of Hurley, a staff nurse at the Benedictine Hospital, to Pvt. James Francis Gilpatrick of 176 Broadway, a member of the armed forces.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. McCutcheon of Hurley, parents of the prospective bride, said the wedding would take place Tuesday, Jan. 9, at St. Mary's Church, this city, after a nuptial Mass at 9:30 a. m.

Pvt. Gilpatrick just completed his indoctrination training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, and will leave for Fort Dix on January 15 for further assignment.

Footlighters Start News Publication For Servicemen

Kingston Footlighters who have stumbled off the stage and into the armed services will be kept in touch with Kingston theatre doings and people, it was announced today, through a newly innovated publication, "Scene Backstage," which has been described as "a gay commentary of news notes, and anecdotes on local Bernhardt and Barrymores."

Although "Scene Backstage" was designed for service members, it has been hailed with enthusiastic response from other absent Kingston members. These include Mrs. Alfred Flowers, the former Jacqueline Mogan who is now living in Phoenix, Ariz., where her husband is a school teacher, and the former Marion Woolf, who was married recently to George Powers of Bedford, Va., where she now lives.

Footlighters in the services include A/S David S. Crystal, Pvt. Earl G. Mack, and Pvt. Robert Spindler. Crystal, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Crystal of New Salem, is now attending school in San Diego. A graduate of New Paltz State Teachers College, he received his basic training at Newport, R. I. He is best remembered for his sympathetic portrayal of the poet Gabriele in "October Was Gay."

Mack, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mack of Whiteport, has traveled from Fort Devens, Mass., to Fort Dix, N. J., and from there to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he was assigned to the medical corps. He has been acclaimed for his role this summer of Canon Frederick Chausable, D.D., in Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," as well as for the part of Mr. Sner in Sheridan's "The Critic" which was presented last September at the state fair in Syracuse.

Robert Spindler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ino Spindler of Maple Hill, is serving with the Air Corps in San Antonio, where he and Private Mack have managed many reunions, although they are stationed at different camps.

Frank Spies of New Paltz, formerly of the Rogue Trio, currently starring at the Embassy, entered the service before he was able to join the Footlighters, but the group reports there's a role ready and waiting for him when he returns. Meanwhile, all servicemen will remain active members during the period they are with the armed services.

Footlighters also report that work on their little theatre continues, in spite of the loss of eight willing hands to Uncle Sam. Rehearsals for "My Fine Ladies" are now in progress. Recent additions to the building fund patron list are William Lake Hotel, Walter Devport Sons, Island Dock, Inc.; The Standard Furniture Company; Gertrude Weyte; Mrs. Adrian Kaplan; and O'Reilly's Stationery Company, Inc.

Ellis Island Work Highlights Monthly D.A.R. Meeting

A discussion of the work done by the D.A.R. on Ellis Island, conducted by Mrs. Alfred Relyea, chairman of the Ellis Island committee, highlighted the January meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter D.A.R., when the group met Thursday with Mrs. Adam Porter, regent, presiding.

In her explanatory talk on the work done on Ellis Island, Mrs. Relyea described the quota system of immigration, which helped decrease the influx of foreigners into the United States, explaining that permission was given to the U. S. Public Health Service to use the hospital buildings there for members of the Merchant Marine, Coast Guard, lighthouse keepers, and aliens in need of medical care. The government, she emphasized, supplies only medical care.

D.A.R. Steps In

In 1934, Mrs. Relyea continued, the D.A.R., by request of government authorities, was asked to help finance the occupational therapy program which exists today. The program, she concluded, is carried out not only by special funds set aside for that purpose by the national society, but also by contributions from individual societies and members.

Mrs. Relyea's talk was followed by a movie of the building, hospital patients, hospital unit, and the Marine Hospital on Staten Island, whose occupational therapy program is also supported largely through D.A.R. contributions.

Protest Vote

During the meeting members voted that the regent write the congressmen and senators for the area protesting the use of tax money for what the group termed "thought control." Specific objections were named against socialized medicine and world government.

Mrs. Porter announced that

Miss Barbara Ewig has been chosen good citizenship pilgrim of 1950, and Mrs. Dean Hays reported that cartons of books have been sent to the Marine Hospital at Staten Island, coupled with the hospital's request for even more. The third report was given by Miss Idella Hyde who announced the distribution of 125 manuals on citizenship among libraries and schools.

Mrs. Russell Resigns

Other business included the resignation of Mrs. Warren Russell as first vice-regent, and the appointment of Mrs. R. R. Empringham to fill her office until the group's elections in May. Members elected to attend the D.A.R. Continental Congress in Washington in April are Mrs. Adam Porter, regent; Mrs. Walter Tremper, delegate; Mrs. Arthur Quimby, alternate; and Mrs. Claude Felen, alternate. Mrs. Clarence Dunn was appointed chairman of the annual bazaar which will be held in March.

Hostesses for the meeting were the Mmes. Burdette R. Tuttle, Prescott J. Clapp and Frank W. Curtis.

A meeting of the Incorporated Society, Wiltwyck Chapter, will be held January 18, when Mrs. Frederick P. Smith will speak on "Woodstock, History and Personalities." Following the meeting the chapter is invited to the old Senate House for tea at 3:30. All members are requested to attend.

Minnesota is said to have the sole remaining herd of woodland caribou in the United States.

Phone Calls 10 Cents

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 6 (AP)—The charge for a local call from a coinbox telephone rose to 10 cents today in most of New York state. Instead of a nickel, you have to drop a dime or two nickels into paystation phones operated by the New York Telephone Company. In the early 1930's, the charge was 15 cents. It was dropped to 10 cents in 1938. The nickel rate went into effect in 1948. The new coinbox is expected to yield about $12,000,000 additional revenue annually.

Footlighters Start News Publication For Servicemen

Kingston Footlighters who have stumbled off the stage and into the armed services will be kept in touch with Kingston theatre doings and people, it was announced today, through a newly innovated publication, "Scene Backstage," which has been described as "a gay commentary of news notes, and anecdotes on local Bernhards and Barrymores."

Although "Scene Backstage" was designed for service members, it has been hailed with enthusiastic response from other absent Kingston members. These include Mrs. Alfred Flowers, the former Jacqueline Mogan who is now living in Phoenix, Ariz., where her husband is a school teacher, and the former Marion Woolf, who was married recently to George Powers of Bedford, Va., where she now lives.

Footlighters in the services include A/S David S. Crystal, Pvt. Earl G. Mack, and Pvt. Robert Spindler. Crystal, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Crystal of New Salem, is now attending school in San Diego. A graduate of New Paltz State Teachers College, he received his basic training at Newport, R. I. He is best remembered for his sympathetic portrayal of the poet Gabriele in "October Was Gay."

Mack, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mack of Whiteport, has traveled from Fort Devens, Mass., to Fort Dix, N. J., and from there to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he was assigned to the medical corps. He has been acclaimed for his role this summer of "The Critic," which was presented last September at the state fair in Syracuse.

Robert Spindler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ino Spindler of Maple Hill, is serving with the Air Corps in San Antonio, where he and Private Mack have managed many reunions, although they are stationed at different camps.

Frank Spies of New Paltz, formerly of the Rogue Trio, currently starring at the Embassy, entered the service before he was able to join the Footlighters, but the group reports there's a role ready and waiting for him when he returns. Meanwhile, all servicemen will remain active members during the period they are with the armed services.

Footlighters also report that work on their little theatre continues, in spite of the loss of eight willing hands to the service. Rehearsals for "My Fine Ladies" are now in progress. Recent additions to the building fund patron list are Williams Lake Hotel; Walter Davenport Sons; Island Dock, Inc.; The Standard Furniture Company; Gertrude Weyte; Mrs. Adrian Kaplan; and O'Reilly's Stationery Company, Inc.

Colonial City Baked in Bid for Working Agreement Stave Off Late Rally; Carpouzis, Hooker Star

Dodgers, Pirates Not Interested For 1951 Season

Indians, Giants, Tigers Still to Be Explored

With the date of the Canadian-American League meeting just a week away, proponents of a Kingston franchise in the streamlined six-team Class C circuit have not been able to secure a major league working agreement, Ad Jones, Colonial City Baseball, Inc., president, said today.

Jones had been in telephone conversation with Brooklyn and Pittsburgh officials and said they had given him "very little encouragement."

The possibility of agreements with either the Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians and New York Giants was still to be explored, he added.

"The stepped up draft situation has most of the big league chains scared to death," Jones said, "and the trend is very likely to be toward retrenchment in spite of George Trautman's prediction that all minor leagues would operate in 1951."

High On Kingston
Meanwhile, President Albert E. Houghton of the Can-Am told reporters after last week's meeting in Kingston that choice for the sixth team has narrowed down to Kingston and Utica and that "at the present time the swing is toward the Hudson River valley city because of better facilities."

"Facilities in Kingston and the whole atmosphere is much better than in Utica," Houghton declared. He pointed out, however, that he did not expect any decision on the selection of the sixth club until the league meeting on Jan. 13 in either Amsterdam or Schenectady.

The Can-Am chief had high praise for the men who represented Kingston at the meeting last week.

"These men are willing to put up the money for Kingston's entry into our league and are interested in getting a good brand of ball for their city," he said, stressing that "these men should know their city and what they're doing."

Referring to Kingston's experience in the Class D North Atlantic League, under the Dodgers and the Colonial League, Houghton emphasized that you can't judge the town by either of its previous experiences.

He said the men in Kingston are working as a team to bring Can-Am baseball to their city, whereas sentiment is divided in Utica.

Disension in Utica
"Len Wilbur (sports editor of the Utica Observer-Dispatch) is openly against the return of Class C baseball to Utica, but Mike Saddy (publisher of a weekly sports journal) and the radio stations are all for it," Houghton said.

Meanwhile, in Kingston, Jones said he would continue to press for a working agreement of some kind with a major league team. Failing in that, the Colonial City Baseball directors would then have to decide between now and Jan. 13, if they would be willing to plunk down the purchase price for a Can-Am franchise and operate independently in 1951.

"We're giving the major league teams a real offer," Jones concluded, "and we think that one of them might still snap up our offer."

Tenpin Topics:

Junie McMahon, the former national match game champion who is scheduled for an appearance at Ferraro's Bowldrome on January 26, leads the 10-year averages in the All-Star tournament. In 428 tournament games, the former Lodi, N. J., star has averaged 205.81. Amoco Gas's 1203 is the 10th highest team single rolled in organized bowling this season. All of which makes Charles O. "Bud" Fromer and missus mighty happy.

The Tenth Frame:

New Jersey keglers, well known in Kingston, are dominating the high score parade in this calendar year of the American Bowling Congress. Pete Kovalski's E-Z Lift Grips of Lodi hold the national lead with a tremendous 3550. Tabby's Sportsmen, also of Lodi, are credited with 3461. Mission Bell Wine of New York sports a 3432 in the Newark Major. Faber Cement Blocks of Teaneck is in the first ten twice with 3417 and 3388. Apparently Eddie Gass and company are back in stride after a year's slump. In the singles department, E-Z Lift has a 1286 effort; Faber Cement, 1220; Tabby's, 1210. Highest game rolled in the nation is the 1300 by Ziern's of St. Louis. The individual leader is Dan Toranski of Cleveland, Ohio, with 830. Through Dec. 19, the A.B.C. had approved 49 scores of 300; 23 of 299 and 21 of 298. The awards in order are gold, silver and bronze:

Reserved dates for the New York State Bowling Association tournament in Elmira close on Feb. 17. The Kingston Bowling Association has reserved a dozen alleys for April 7 and 8 (Saturday and Sunday) which will be "Kingston Nights" at the state meet. Entry blanks are available and reservations should be made through Charles J. Tiano, secretary of the Kingston Bowling Association. The team event will be rolled on Sunday. Ad Jones, state committeeman from this area will take two teams to Elmira the preceding week-end, giving Kingston a potential total of 14 squads in the tournament, highest in local history.

Of Men and Mice:

Johnny Ferraro's second annual doubles sweepstakes were a tremendous success and attracted bowlers from all over the eastern section of the state. Gene Kelly of Newburgh and Big Joe Schrowang flushed slightly during the sweeps when pocket shots delivered the "5-7-10" split, Chris Robinson of Kingston and Phil Versace, the Bridge City match game shark, must have entered 50 times between them. Both landed on the prize list which proved the old adage, if you don't succeed at first. . . . Most highly regarded new bowling find in women's circles seems to be Ada Markie, who has all the equipment to barge into the 169 and then 170-average bracket. Some mild reaction to the city tournament's plan of operating without handicap this year, but that's the way the board of directors voted it at the last annual meeting of the Kingston Bowling Association. The K.B.A. has scheduled a special board of directors meeting on Sunday, Jan. 14 at the county court house. The K.W.B.A. tournament in Rosendale seems likely to attract almost 100 per cent representation from Kingston. The tournament was a nice plum for Helene Mollenhauer and the other hard working Rosendale girls. John MacLellan doing swell job as tub thumper for city tournament publicity.

New wood and stiffened conditions seem to have slowed down the telephone number scores at the Central Recs, but the high score trend is national in scope. One of the amendments which was passed at the A.B.C. convention last spring permitted bowling pin manufacturers to round the bottom edge of bowling pins on a radius of 5/32". In other words, where the bottom of a pin was formerly 2 1/4 inch, the surface is now only about two inches. With the extra quarter of an inch taken off the bottom of the pin, they will naturally fall easier and thus the higher scoring this season. So, if your average is not better than last year, you are slipping, trundler. Unfortunately the pin manufacturers make no allowances for spits, misses and fouts. And you still have to get that ball into the 1-3 pocket.

Buzz Fazio's Stroh Bohemian
Beers of Detroit set an all-time triplicate record on December 7. The Stroh counted games of 1144, 1144, 1144 for a 3432 total in the Detroit Major Classic League. While you drool, we present the boxscore:

Montgomery 82-72 Winner Over Recs

Williams Stops Gatica in First

New York, Jan. 6 (AP)—How much has Ike Williams slipped? How much fighter is Jose Gatica? The answer both times is "not much."

It took only 2:06 of the first round to solve both riddles last night at Madison Square Garden. Williams, sharp and trim, chopped down the swarming little Argentine with ease, knocking him to the canvas three times in a non-title bout.

Gatica's dreams of becoming the first South American to win a world title exploded before he ever got a shot at the crown. Four left hooks and a jarring right did the trick. Now he's ready to return to Argentina.

Jose, 5-foot-4 of swarming mauler, tried to rush the world lightweight champ off his feet. Angular like coolly picked his opening and pulled the trigger. Referee Ray Miller called a halt after the third knockdown.

Miller counted three after a left hook dumped Gatica, baby blue socks and all. He counted six when another hook jolted Jose. The third time he didn't bother to count but waved an automatic ending. Under New York State Athletic Commission rules, a referee is instructed to stop a bout after a fighter is knocked down three times in a round. The only exception is a championship bout.

Kentucky Cats Regain Touch

New York, Jan. 6 (AP)—Could be that Kentucky's 43-42 overtime loss to St. Louis last week was a mistake, after all.

Coach Adolph Rupp's five led The Associated Press weekly poll for first two weeks, then dropped one to the Billikins and kerplunk, down Kaintuck dropped to third.

But since, the Wildcats have hung a decisive defeat on Syracuse, and last night dumped Auburn by 79-35. That one was not only decisive, but downright tragic from the Auburn point of view.

Seven-foot Bill Spivey found the range for 18 points aided by Frank Ramsey who poured home 16. The triumph was Kentucky's second straight in the Southeastern Conference. If you can name anyone likely to beat the Wildcats for the crown, you're more optimistic than the loop coaches.

Notre Dame
Notre Dame, whose basketball team had hoped to erase the painful memories of the past football season, captured its seventh victory in ten games by downing Butler, 55-48, after getting off to a slow start.

Brighton Young, which has lost only to Utah and City College of New York—and which could develop into a national threat—pounded out a 53-47 verdict over Denver, another one-time power that is getting its lumps this year around.

The University of Louisville, its record marred only by a defeat at the hands of Villanova, which hasn't lost a game, paid a call on the University of Miami, and left the field with a 73-60 triumph and its 10th victory of the campaign.

On the west coast, undefeated Washington, which is beginning to shape up as the class of the Pacific coast conference, experienced little trouble in polishing off Oregon, 73-49.

In other coast clashes, Washington State beat Oregon State, 49-42; Southern California, 61-49, and UCLA halted Stanford, 78-73.

Next to Worst

South Bend, Ind. (AP)—Only one Notre Dame football team ever fared worse than the 1950 edition. The 1933 grid Irish dropped five games, compared with the four losses and a tie in nine contests for the recent eleven. In 1905 and 1928, Notre Dame lost four times but there were no ties recorded.

Noted Ski Authority and Photographer Scheduled in Lecture at High School

John Jay, director of athletics at Williams College and one of the world's foremost authorities on skiing and ski photography, will make a personal appearance at the Kingston High School auditorium on Tuesday, Jan. 9, at 8 p. m.

The combined lecture and movie is sponsored by the Kingston High School Ski Club. Tickets may be purchased at the high school, Cerasaro Brothers sporting goods, Artcraft Camera, and at the door.

Jay, a Rhodes scholar, author and lecturer, was formerly associated with the March of Time staff and was America's official Olympic photographer.

The movie highlights will feature complete coverage of the 1950 Federation International de Ski world's championships photographed at Aspen, Colorado and Lake Placid.

Thrilling shots of top American and European skiers in international competition are among other highlights. The entire program should be of tremendous interest to all skiers and non-skiers.

KHS STARS WHO RUINED GOLDBACKS

These two young men, George Carpouzis, left and Leroy Hooker, right, put on a brilliant scoring show as K.H.S. toppled Newburgh Academy from the unbeaten ranks last night. Carpouzis scored 21 points and Hooker had 14 in his first varsity start. Hooker jammed nine of his 14 points into the first quarter to rally the Maroons from a ragged start.

Jayvees Bow In Prelim

K.H.S. Jayvees cagers made a valiant effort to snap the Newburgh Jayvee winning streak, only to come a cropper in the last three minutes of play in last night's prelim at the municipal auditorium.

With George Telepas and Don Dempsey hitting consistently, the Maroons eked out a one point, 27-26 at the three quarter mark and were ahead 33-31 with four minutes remaining.

The Goldbacks juniors then ran off five points in a row and wound up with a final margin of 42-39.

Telepas of Kingston was the individual scoring leader with 18 points and Dempsey accounted for 10 markers.

Spreer led Newburgh with 15 points, seven of them from the foul stripe where the Newburghers actually won the game. They cashed in on 18 of 26 attempts. Kingston held a 14-12 edge from the field.

Will Shift to Hofstra

Newton, Mass., Jan. 6 (AP)—Doug Millette, a defensive stalwart on the Boston College football team, plans to transfer to Hofstra College, Hempstead, N. Y. Millette, a junior, figured as a key man in new coach Mike Holovak's plans for next fall. Doug informed college authorities yesterday he would transfer in two weeks, "after the midyear exams, so I can be nearer home because of the illness of my father." The Millette's live in Freeport, near Hempstead.

Rough Game

Detroit (AP)—End Dick Rifenburg of the Detroit Lions isn't sure that football is so much more rugged a sport than basketball. The Lion wingman completed his first year in pro football without a single injury. Then, after the season, he tried his hand at the cage game. Only seconds after the opening jump, Rifenburg was clouted across the eye by a stray elbow and had to retire. It was the worst injury he received all year.

Kingston High's thrilling 61-59 victory over previously undefeated Newburgh Academy last night created a triple tie for the DUSO League lead.

The Maroon, Goldbacks and Fallsburg each have won four games and lost one.

Middletown High, improving steadily, carved out a major upset when it stopped Poughkeepsie High, 53-42 at the cigar box gym in Poughkeepsie.

Then it happened. The Goldbacks caught on fire. The Maroons began to press, began to toss errant passes that were converted into Newburgh baskets and in a few minutes pandemonium had enveloped the auditorium.

Chrysal on Spreer
Matt Chrysal, a veteran of last year's DUSO championship squad, came to life with 11 points in the final quarter and single-handedly checked off the lead to 58-47. At 2:45 remaining it was Kingston 58, Newburgh 54.

At this critical juncture, Leroy Hooker was fouled twice. He blew one of two attempts then converted the next pair for a 61-54 margin. That was really the ball game. Chrysal and Maher added five points to the NFA total in the final 90 seconds but the Maroons were in possession in the last eight seconds and nailed down one of the sweetest victories ever credited to a K.H.S. squad.

Carpouzis hit beautifully with his hook shot for 21 points. Hooker picked up 14 points-nine in the first period and played a solid game as Mike Provenzano's replacement. Leonard fouled twice in the first two minutes, was removed with four fouls and then came back to finish the game in the critical stretch drive. Camp and Caruso were superb in the backcourt.

Big Ed Gabron, successor to Dick Tyler, led NFA, with 16 points but he had his moments and had to be yanked. Chrysal's late spurt zoomed his individual total to 14 points.

Rhubarb? Ah, yes, a couple of them. One concerned a difference of opinion on how many fouls Dick Schultz (official) said four at one point. Our books said three. Then in the fading moments, Newburgh players and rooters stormed toward the official table claiming that Timer Jim Tobin was not stopping the clock fast enough on plays.

They scared us to death—Newburgh Academy did—in last night's DUSO League basketball thriller before a jam-packed house at the municipal auditorium.

But when the final returns were in, an indomitable K.H.S. basketball machine had registered an upset victory of cataclysmic proportions, 61 to 59, over the previously undefeated Goldbacks.

The victory, ending a three-game reign over K.H.S. by the Goldbacks, created a triple tie with Newburgh and Fallsburg, and was achieved under circumstances that must have spawned a rash of ulcers and heartbreaks among the Newburgh rooters. They almost overcame a 17-point deficit in the final period, well, almost.

Hooker Stars
The game also spawned its Kingston heroes—Leroy Hooker, last year's Jayvee scoring sensation, who responded to his first varsity starting assignment by pulling the Maroon out of the doldrums with nine points in the first quarter.

Then there was the brilliant sharpshooting of George Carpouzis, who racked up 21 points; the drive and aggressiveness of Moll Leonard and the superb ball handling of Chili Caruso and Pete Camp, not to overlook their clutch baskets.

Of course, there were other highlights, some steeped with impending tragedy for Kingston. Like Newburgh's opening spurt which ran up a 7-0 lead at the start of the game and then boosted to 11-4 before a dazzling hook shot by Hooker started the Maroons on their victory march.

Colonial City Balked in Bid for Working Agreement Stave Off Late Rally; Carpouzis, Hooker Star

Dodgers, Pirates Not Interested For 1951 Season

Indians, Giants, Tigers Still to Be Explored

With the date of the Canadian-American League meeting just a week away, proponents of a Kingston franchise in the streamlined six-team Class C circuit have not been able to secure a major league working agreement, Ad Jones, Colonial City Baseball, Inc., president, said today.

Jones had been in telephone conversation with Brooklyn and Pittsburgh officials and said they had given him "very little encouragement."

The possibility of agreements with either the Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians and New York Giants was still to be explored, he added.

"The stepped up draft situation has most of the big league chains scared to death," Jones said, "and the trend is very likely to be toward retrenchment in spite of George Trautman's prediction that all minor leagues would operate in 1951."

High On Kingston

Meanwhile, President Albert E. Houghton of the Can-Am told reporters after last week's meeting in Kingston that choice for the sixth team has narrowed down to Kingston and Utica and that at the present time the swing is toward the Hudson River valley city because of better facilities.

"Facilities in Kingston and the whole atmosphere is much better than in Utica," Houghton declared. He pointed out, however, that he did not expect any decision on the selection of the sixth team until the league meeting on Jan. 13 in either Amsterdam or Schenectady.

The Can-Am chief had high praise for the men who represented Kingston at the meeting last week.

"These men are willing to put up the money for Kingston's entry into our league and are interested in getting a good brand of ball for their city," he said, stressing that "these men should know their city and what they are doing."

Referring to Kingston's experience in the Class D North Atlantic League, under the Dodgers and the Colonial League, Houghton emphasized that "you can't judge the town by either of its previous experiences."

He said the men in Kingston are working as a team to bring Can-Am baseball to their city, whereas sentiment is divided in Utica.

Dissension in Utica
"Len Wilbur (sports editor of the Utica Observer-Dispatch) is openly against the return of Class C baseball to Utica, but Mike Sandy (publisher of a weekly sports journal) and the radio station are all for it," Houghton said.

Meanwhile, in Kingston, Jones said he would continue to press for a working agreement of some kind with a major league team. Failing in that, the Colonial City Baseball directors would then have to decide between now and Jan. 13, if they would be willing to plunk down the purchase price for a Can-Am franchise and operate independently in 1951.

"We're giving the major league teams a real offer," Jones concluded, "and we think that one of them might still snap up our offer."

• The Tenth Frame:

New Jersey keggers, well known in Kingston, are dominating the high score parade in this calendar year of the American Bowling Congress. Pete Kovalski's E-Z Lift Grips of Lodi hold the national lead with a tremendous 3550. Tabby's Sportsmen, also of Lodi, are credited with 3461. Mission Bell Wine of New York sports a 3432 in the Newark Major. Faber Cement Blocks of Taneck is in the first ten twice with 3417 and 3388. Apparently Eddie Gass and company are back in stride after a year's slump. In the singles department, E-Z Lift has a 1236 effort; Faber Cement, 1220; Tabby's, 1210. Highest game rolled in the nation is the 1300 by Ziern's of St. Louis. The individual leader is Dan Toronski of Cleveland, Ohio, with 830. Through Dec. 19, the A.B.C. had approved 49 scores of 300; 23 of 299 and 21 of 298. The awards in order are gold, silver and bronze:

Reserved dates for the New York State Bowling Association tournament in Elmira close on Feb. 17. The Kingston Bowling Association has reserved a dozen alleys for April 7 and 8 (Saturday and Sunday) which will be "Kingston Nights" at the state meet. Entry blanks are available and reservations should be made through Charles J. Tiano, secretary of the Kingston Bowling Association. The team event will be rolled on Sunday. Ad Jones, state committeeman from this area will take two teams to Elmira the preceding week-end, giving Kingston a potential total of 14 quads in the tournament, highest in local history.

• Of Men and Mice:

Johnny Ferraro's second annual doubles sweepstakes was a tremendous success and attracted bowlers from all over the eastern section of the state. Gene Kelly of Newburgh and Big Joe Schrowang flushed slightly during the sweeps when pocket shots delivered the "5-7-10" split. Chris Robinson of Kingston and Phil Versace, the Bridge City match game shark, must have entered 30 times between them. Both landed on the prize list which proved the old adage, if you don't succeed at first. . . . Most highly regarded new bowling find in women's circles seems to be Ada Markle, who has all the equipment to barge into the 169 and then 170-average bracket. Some mild reaction to the city tournament's plan of operating without handicaps this year, but that's the way the board of directors voted at the last annual meeting of the Kingston Bowling Association. The K.B.A. has scheduled a special board of directors meeting on Sunday, Jan. 14 at the county court house. The K.W.B.A. tournament in Rosendale seems likely to attract almost 100 per cent representation from Kingston. The tournament was a nice plum for Helene Mollenhauer and the other hard working Rosendale gals. John MacLennan doing swell job as tub thumper for city tournament publicity.

New wood and stiffened conditions seem to have slowed down the telephone number scores at the Central Recs, but the high score trend is national in scope. One of the amendments which was passed at the ABC convention last spring permitted bowling pin manufacturers to round the bottom edge of bowling pins on a radius of 5/32". In other words, where the bottom of a pin was formerly 2 1/4 inch, the surface is now only about two inches. With the extra quarter of an inch taken off the bottom of the pin, they will naturally fall easier and thus the higher scoring this season. So, if your average is not better than last year, you are slipping, trundler. Unfortunately the pin manufacturers make no allowances for splits, misses and fouls. And you still have to get that ball into the 1-3 pocket.

Montgomery 82-72 Winner Over Recs

Williams Stops Gatica in First

New York, Jan. 6 (AP)—How much has Ike Williams slipped? How much fighter is Jose Gatica?

The answer both times is "not much."

It took only 2:06 of the first round to solve both riddles last night at Madison Square Garden. Williams, sharp and trim, chopped down the swarming little Argentine with ease, knocking him to the canvas three times in a non-title bout.

Gatica's dreams of becoming the first South American to win a world title exploded before he ever got a shot at the crown. Four left hooks and a jarring right did the trick. Now he's ready to return to Argentina.

Jose, 5-foot-4 of swarming mauler, tried to rush the world lightweight champ off his feet. Angular Ike coolly picked his opening and pulled the trigger. Referee Ray Miller called a halt after the third knockdown. Miller counted three after a left hook dumped Gatica, baby face socks and all. He counted six when another hook jolted Jose. The third time he didn't bother to count but waved an automatic ending. Under New York State Athletic Commission rules, a referee is instructed to stop a bout after a fighter is knocked down three times in a round. The only exception is a championship bout.

Clubs Meet Again Here on Monday

The Recreations resume their Orange-Sullivan League schedule Monday night at the municipal auditorium against the powerful Montgomery Legion.

Montgomery whipped the locals, 82-72, with a strong second half finish on the Montgomery court Thursday night.

After dominating the game in the early minutes, the Recreations slipped behind 36-33 at halftime and then yielded five more points in the third period.

Andy Juhl and Rod Sagendorf were the big Recreation guns with 19 points apiece to tie Fran Petrillo of Montgomery. This was one of Juhl's best performances for the Recreations, while Sagendorf continues his fine shooting of recent games. Frank Sass was the other Rec cager to hit double figures with 10 points.

Sagendorf's nine fields topped both clubs, while Juhl and Petrillo had identical marks of eight baskets and three singles. Other high scorers for Montgomery included Dorazio with 12, Schick 14 and Antonucci with 12.

Kentucky Cats Regain Touch

New York, Jan. 6 (AP)—Could be that Kentucky's 43-42 overtime loss to St. Louis last week was a mistake, after all.

Coch Coach Adolph Rupp's five led The Associated Press weekly poll for first two weeks, then dropped one to the Billikins and Kerplunk, down Kaintuck dropped to third.

But since, the Wildcats have hung a decisive defeat on Syracuse, and last night dumped Auburn by 79-35. That one was not only decisive, but downright tragic from the Auburn point of view.

Seven-foot Bill Spivey found the range for 18 points aided by Frank Ramsey who poured home 16. The triumph was Kentucky's second straight in the Southeastern Conference. If you can name anyone likely to beat the Wildcats for the crown, you're more optimistic than the loop coaches.

Notre Dame
Notre Dame, whose basketball team had hoped to erase the painful memories of the past football season, captured its seventh victory in ten games by downing Butler, 55-48, after getting off to a slow start.

Brigham Young, which has lost only to Utah and City College of New York—and which could develop into a national threat—pounded out a 53-47 verdict over Denver, another one-time power that is getting its lumps this time around.

The University of Louisville, its record marred only by a defeat at the hands of Villanova, which hasn't lost a game, paid a call on the University of Miami, and left the field with a 73-60 triumph and its 10th victory of the campaign.

On the west coast, undefeated Washington, which is beginning to shape up as the class of the Pacific Coast Conference, experienced little trouble in polishing off Oregon, 73-49.

In other coast clashes, Washington State beat Oregon State, 49-42; Southern California, 61-49, and UCLA halted Stanford, 78-73.

Next to Worst

South Bend, Ind. (AP)—Only one Notre Dame football team ever fared worse than the 1950 edition. The 1933-grid Irish dropped five games, compared with the four losses and a tie in nine contests for the recent eleven. In 1905 and 1928, Notre Dame lost four times but there were no ties recorded.

Outlooked—Rudy Garcia, 148½, outpointed Lauro Salas, 128½, Monterey, Calif. (10).

Noted Ski Authority and Photographer Scheduled in Lecture at High School

The combined lecture and movie is sponsored by the Kingston High School Ski Club. Tickets may be purchased at the high school, Cerasaro Brothers sporting goods, Artcraft Camera, and at the door.

KHS STARS WHO RUINED GOLDBACKS

These two young men, George Carpouzis, left and Leroy Hooker, right, put on a brilliant scoring show as K.H.S. toppled Newburgh Academy from the unbeaten ranks last night. Carpouzis scored 21 points and Hooker had 14 in his first varsity start. Hooker jammed nine of his 14 points into the first quarter to rally the Maroons from a ragged start.

Jayvees Bow In Prelim

K.H.S. Jayvees cagers made a valiant effort to snap the Newburgh Jayvee winning streak, only to come a cropper in the last three minutes of play in last night's prelim at the municipal auditorium.

With George Telepas and Don Dempsey hitting consistently, the Maroons eked out a one point, 27-26 at the three quarter mark and were ahead 33-31 with four minutes remaining.

The Goldback juniors then ran off five points in a row and wound up with a final margin of 42-39.

Telepas of Kingston was the individual scoring leader with 18 points and Dempsey accounted for 10 markers.

Spreer led Newburgh with 15 points, seven of them from the foul stripe where the Newburghers actually won the game. They cashed in on 18 of 26 attempts. Kingston held a 14-12 edge from the field.

Will Shift to Hofstra

Newton, Mass., Jan. 6 (AP)—Doug Millette, a defensive stalwart on the Boston College football team, plans to transfer to Hofstra College, Hempstead, N. Y.

Millette, a junior, figured as a key man in new coach Mike Holovak's plans for next fall. Doug informed college authorities yesterday he would transfer in two weeks, "after the midyear exams, so I can be nearer home because of the illness of my father." The Millette's live in Freeport, near Hempstead.

Rough Game

Detroit (AP)—End Dick Rifenburg of the Detroit Lions isn't sure that football is so much more rugged a sport than basketball. The Lion tumbler completed his first year in pro football without a single injury. Then, after the season, he tried his hand at the game. Only seconds after the opening jump, Rifenburg was clouted across the eye by a stray elbow and had to retire. It was the worst injury he received all year.

Kingston High's thrilling 61-59 victory over previously undefeated Newburgh Academy last night created a triple tie for the DUSO League lead.

The Maroon, Goldbacks and Fallsburg each have won four games and lost one.

Middletown, High, improving steadily, carved out a major upset when it stopped Poughkeepsie High, 53-42 at the cigar box gym in Poughkeepsie. The Middies took the lead at the three-minute mark of the third period and were never headed.

Fallsburg Rolls

Fallsburg tripped Monticello on the Comets' home boards, 53-46. Andy McCullough's 21 points could not save the Monties.

Ellenville showed great power in crushing Liberty, 67-44, despite Wayne Maurer's 20 markers.

Snead's Sub-Par 67 Leads Open Golf

Los Angeles, Jan. 6 (AP)—Southern Sam Snead, temperamental proprietor of golf's golden swing, stood out as the man to catch to watch as the second round got underway in the 25th annual Los Angeles open.

Snead, the defending champion, contributed a four-under-par 67 yesterday toward his third victory in the $15,000 tournament.

Snead blazed a 31 on the par-35 front nine and carded a regulation 36 on the backside to finish with a one stroke lead over Marty Furgol, North Hollywood, Calif.

Only Furgol, with a 33-35-68, and eight others were in a favorable position to overhaul Slammin' Sam in today's round.

Opening with 69's were Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., Skeet Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., and film actor Joe Kirkwood, Jr.

Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill., and newcomer Bob Watson from White Plains, N. Y., each fired a 70, one under par.

They scared us to death—Newburgh Academy did—in last night's DUSO League basketball thriller before a jam-packed house at the municipal auditorium.

But when the final returns were in, an indomitable K.H.S. basketball machine had registered an upset victory of cataclysmic proportions, 61 to 59, over the previously undefeated Goldbacks.

The victory, ending a three-game reign over K.H.S. by the Goldbacks, created a triple tie with Newburgh and Fallsburg, and was achieved under circumstances that must have spawned a rash of ulcers and heartbreaks among the Newburgh rooters. They almost overcame a 17-point deficit in the final period, well, almost.

Hooker Stars

The game also spawned its Kingston heroes—Leroy Hooker, last year's Jayvee scoring sensation, who responded to his first varsity starting assignment by pulling the Maroon out of the doldrums with nine points in the first quarter.

Then there was the brilliant sharpshooting of George Carpouzis, who racked up 21 points; the drive and aggressiveness of Moll Leonard and the superb ball handling of Chl Caruso and Pete Camp, not to overlook their clutch baskets.

Of course, there were other highlights, some steeped with impending tragedy for Kingston. Like Newburgh's opening spurt which ran up a 7-0 lead at the start of the game and then boosted to 11-4 before a dazzling hook shot by Hooker started the Maroons on their victory march.

From the first four minutes until the last hectic four, the Goldbacks, solid forwards, were outclassed by the

Comments on Speech
Moscow, Jan. 6 (AP)—Reporting briefly the speech of Sen. Robert A. Taft in the U. S. Senate yesterday, the newspaper Pravda today said the Ohio Republican condemned President Truman's foreign policy as "leading to unnecessary war." Another Pravda article said there was a rebellion in the U. S. Congress against the foreign policy of President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson. It was the second time a major address by Taft had been reported briefly in the Soviet press. In neither case has there been any editorial comment.

Kills Two, Self

Schuylerville, N. Y., Jan. 6 (AP)—A caretaker of the Saratoga battle monument shot and killed his wife and sister and then killed himself today, state police reported. Campbell, Morton Fink, Gerald O'Neill and William Polk. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery where the last absolution and blessing were given by Father Flaherty assisted by Father Flaherty.

Challenges . . .

thority to send additional troops to Europe until Congress acts.

2. The United States should rely principally on air and sea power and maintain far-flung bases from which it could dispatch atomic bombs.

3. If European nations begin to build up their defenses with American help and there is "a reasonable chance of success, I should not object to committing some limited number of American divisions to work with them."

4. He does not agree with those "who think we can completely abandon the rest of the world and rely solely upon the defense of this continent."

Would Build Strong Alliance

5. He has yet to find "any conclusive evidence" that Russia plans to start a war against the United States and believes that a "reasonable alliance" with Britain, France, Holland, Australia and Canada can establish a power that cannot be challenged by Russia.

6. The United States should make a peace treaty with Japan and help her rearm, while providing arms for the Chinese Nationalists to conduct guerrilla warfare against the Chinese Communists.

7. "It is far better to fall back to a defensible position in Japan and Formosa than to maintain a Korean position which would surely be indefensible in any third world."

Same as Hoover, He Says

Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) told reporters he thinks the Ohio Republican "merely put some other decorations on former President Hoover's speech—but it's still the same old isolationist cake."

Taft himself said that Hoover's call for concentration of American defense power in the Western Hemisphere had been "completely misrepresented by the administration press."

"It is still fashionable to meet any criticism by cries of isolationism just as Mr. Hoover's recent speech has been treated," Taft declared.

In-between Stand
Senator Ives (R-N.Y.) said he assayed Taft's views as being "between those of Mr. Hoover and John Foster Dulles—nearer those of Dulles than Hoover."

Dulles, Republican foreign affairs adviser, said recently that "solitary defense is never impregnable," adding that the best defense against aggression "is the capacity to counterattack."

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) praised Taft's proposal for a blockade against Communist China. Taft said the blockade would be "more effective if we had not been under the delusion that we were operating under the United Nations" in Korea adding that after this "we will have to engage in our own wars."

Contending that the United States could furnish troops for the U.N. only after there had been an agreement with other states on a police force, Taft said:

"The President's simply usurped authority, in violation of the laws and the constitution, when he sent troops to carry out the resolution of the United Nations in an undeclared war."

Dislikes Like At Head

It would be better now, Taft said to fight a declared war against the Chinese Communists. He insisted that Europe must take the initiative in rearming. He said he doesn't like the selection of Eisenhower as chief of the North Atlantic Defense Force because he fears that this will be taken as a signal that the whole thing is an American—and not a European—enterprise.

Three Rail Groups

House conferences that the proposed settlement would cost the roads $130,000,000 annually.

The proposal, accepted by railway and top union officials, taking part in negotiations, and generally hailed as a three-year peace pact—ran into difficulty when it was presented to regional union organizations for approval.

Plan Week-end Talk

First the engineers, then the trainmen and firemen, and the engineers turned the pact down at meetings of their general chairmen. The fourth union, the Order of Railway Conductors, will hold its meeting in St. Louis Sunday. It, too, is expected to reject the settlement plan.

The Three-man National

Mediation Board arranged week-end talks with Dr. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, to discuss future moves. Steelman helped work out the original agreement.

In announcing they would seek a freight rate increase, traffic officials representing railways in the east, south and west said petitions would be filed in a few days with the Interstate Commerce Commission and state regulatory bodies.

Reports Rising Protests

Moscow, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Soviet press today declared there is a rising tide of protest throughout the word against the rearming of Germany. The Communist Party newspaper Pravda said "the people understand that the demilitarization of Germany has first degree importance in the cause of assuring international peace and security." (The Soviet press apparently referred to the allied proposal to incorporate German units in the Atlantic Pact army.)

since Dec 30. They also killed or wounded an estimated 7,500 Communist troops.

The fighters also reported destruction of 4,000 buildings, four tanks, three locomotives, five bridges, 23 railroad cars and six warehouses.

The air blows picked up speed Saturday. Navy and Air Force fighters and light bombers claimed to have killed or wounded 3,100 Communist troops in the past 24 hours. Two-thirds of the time was shot up in the hard-pressed central sector.

Stassen Learns a Lot

London, Jan. 6 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, who is flying around the world "calling on a lot of prime ministers," arrived here from South Africa, "tired and with a mass of undigested information." On his flight Stassen has interviewed the prime ministers of Japan, Indonesia, Thailand, India, Pakistan, Israel and South Africa, and numerous other political, military and economic leaders.

"It's hard to say, without elaborating the background, whether I am less or more concerned about the future of the world," Stassen said. "But it has been an extremely useful trip. I return with a great deal of information."

Free to Grow Corn, Wheat

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Planting restrictions for 1951 on corn and wheat were lifted yesterday. That means farmers can plant and grow all they want of the two great grain staples. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said the move results from the national emergency and the country's partial mobilization. But Brannan warned farmers that "increased livestock numbers" will need pasture as well as feed. He said each farmer should make sure that in devoting more land to wheat and corn "he is not doing violence to continuing needs for soil conservation."

Crewmen Stall Shipping

Philadelphia, Jan. 6 (AP)—Two sugar refineries were shut down today and more than 6,000 workers were idle as a three-day-old strike of tugboat crewmen stalled shipping in the busy port of Philadelphia. The refinery, employing about 2,500 workers, announced they had suspended operations because raw sugar supplies are tied up aboard strikebound vessels. A total of 32 cargo ships swung at anchor in the Delaware river or could not be moved from their piers as the result of the walkout. Several vessels have already been diverted to other ports.

Find Dynamite Near Track

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 6 (AP)—Two railroad switchmen reported last night they found a charge of dynamite set on the main Southern Pacific track near Phoenix. The railroad men, Joe Hamilton and Harry Graves, told sheriff's deputies the charge consisted of one stick of dynamite, a 35-inch length of fuse and a No. 10 detonating cap. The sheriff's office said the fuse had burned in two places, but failed to reach the charge.

Quake Shakes Capital

Srinagar, Kashmir, Jan. 6 (AP)—Severe earth tremors lasting 20 seconds shook this capital today. Panicky residents darted from their cracking, collapsing houses into open spaces. There was no immediate word of any casualties.

Dewey Will . . .

nor, the attorney general, the majority and minority members of the state Senate and Assembly, the Assembly speaker, the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, the chairman of the State Civil Defense Commission, and 12 persons to be appointed by the governor.

The governor's appointees would serve at his pleasure, without salary, but would be permitted to draw expenses. Their names would be submitted to the Senate for approval.

The bill would add five new members to the present Civil Defense Commission. They would be the state commissioners of housing, industry, agriculture and commerce and the state director of veterans affairs.

The commission's existing powers to "provide order and safety in an emergency" would be enlarged and made more precise, Walsh said.

No appropriation is included in the bill for carrying out the preparedness operation. This will be provided for in the regular budget bills submitted before Feb. 1 on the basis of Governor Dewey's annual budget message to the Legislature.

No Estimate of Cost Yet

Walsh said there was no estimate at this time as to the cost. Specifically, the bill would authorize the Defense Council to enter into all types of mutual-aid pacts with other states and require all political subdivisions of the state to take part in the defense program. The council also would have authority to:

1. Conserve and restrict the use of essential or scarce products, commodities, materials, goods or services, and suspend "provisions of law which require the use thereof where such suspension is consistent with safety and health."
2. Regulate the distribution, sale or use of food, fuel, clothing, and household articles "where the temporary use thereof is necessary because of emergency conditions."
3. Restrict the demolition of buildings or structures and suspend the right to authorize such demolitions, "where such buildings or structures may be useful in the defense effort or to provide necessary housing or other accommodations."
4. Protect or preserve all property, "whether privately or publicly owned, by the owner or person in control thereof, or otherwise."
5. Recruit, enroll, conscript and organize manpower.
6. Authorize and regulate labor, business or work on Sundays or legal holidays.
7. Restrict parades or assemblages in order to protect physical safety of persons or property.
8. Maintain or expand schools.
9. Set up licensing and priority systems.

Would Direct Counties

The law also would direct every county, except those within New York city, and every city to prepare and put into effect a civil-defense plan approved by the State C-D Commission.

The chief executive officer of each such subdivision would be empowered "to authorize any expenditure necessary" for the operation.

In cities of more than 100,000 population, officers would recruit, train and equip air raid wardens in the ratio of one for every 25 residents, organize an emergency mortuary service capable of handling "at least 80,000 fatalities under disaster conditions," and install suitable public-warning systems.

In case of attack, cities and counties could seize private property, transportation and communication facilities and everything else deemed vital to the defense effort.

Murder Victim's

Leonard Belmont of the Ulster county sheriff's office.

Ontario authorities working on the case, who accompanied Webster here on Friday, were Corporal Fred Guyle of the state police Canandaigua barracks; County Investigator Anthony Cecere and Deputy Sheriff's Jack Fennell and P. B. Oakley of Ontario county.

Discarded Own Clothes Too

Cecere said that Webster had driven from Canandaigua to Elmira, Binghamton, Kingston, Albany, Schenectady and Utica after the murder, and had discarded both his own and the victim's clothing and other articles along the route.

He said that Lennox was murdered

on December 5, and his body discovered the following day. Webster was apprehended in Utica on December 8 and was arraigned on a first degree murder charge in Ontario county. He was committed to the county jail to await grand jury action on the charge.

Eisenhower . . .

ance ranging from Norway and Britain in the north to Italy in the south. He probably also will talk with American officials in Germany.

'Exploratory' Tour

He has described this first tour in his new role as Atlantic alliance commander as being "exploratory." He wants to get at first hand information on what leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty countries think about the defense program and what they are prepared to do about it. He told a news conference Thursday that he will seek to make sure that he is not "working at cross purposes with anybody."

In the same conference he laid down what other officials said today will undoubtedly be one of the main themes of his talks in Europe. He declared that "unless every sacrifice made by Americans is matched by the Europeans, this thing will not work."

Speed Is Urged

About the same time, substantially the same idea was expressed in London by Charles M. Spofford, Secretary of State Acheson's deputy on the North Atlantic Treaty Council and chairman of that body. Spofford called rearmament progress in Europe disappointing.

Challenges . . .

thority to send additional troops to Europe until Congress acts.
2. The United States should rely principally on air and sea power and maintain far-flung bases from which it could dispatch atomic bombs.
3. If European nations begin to build up their defenses with American help and there is "a reasonable chance of success, I should not object to committing some limited number of American divisions to work with them."
4. He does not agree with those "who think we can completely abandon the rest of the world and rely solely upon the defense of this continent."

Would Build Strong Alliance
5. He has yet to find "any conclusive evidence" that Russia plans to start a war against the United States and believes that a "reasonable alliance" with Britain, France, Holland, Australia and Canada can establish a power that cannot be challenged by Russia.
6. The United States should make a peace treaty with Japan and help her rearm, while providing arms for the Chinese Nationalist government to conduct guerrilla warfare against the Chinese Communists.

7. "It is far better to fall back to a defensible position in Japan and Formosa than to maintain a Korean position which would surely be indefensible in any third world war."
8. And "finally the policy we adopt must be approved by Congress and the people after full and free discussion" because the administration's "policy of secret executive agreements has brought us to danger and disaster."

Taft's lengthy speech brought varying reactions from his colleagues.
Same as Hoover, He Says
Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) told reporters he thinks the Ohio Republican "has merely put some other decorations on former President Hoover's speech—but it's still the same old isolationist cake."

Taft himself said that Hoover's call for concentration of American defense power in the Western Hemisphere had been "completely misrepresented by the administration."
"It is still fashionable to meet any criticism by cries of isolationism just as Mr. Hoover's recent speech has been treated," Taft declared.

In-Between Stand
Senator Ives (R-N.Y.) said he assayed Taft's views as being "between those of Mr. Hoover and John Foster Dulles—warmer than Dulles, but cooler than Hoover."

Dulles, Republican foreign affairs adviser, said recently that "solitary defense is never impregnable," adding that the best defense against aggression "is the capacity to counterattack."

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) praised Taft's proposal for blockading a gap in Communist China. Taft said the blockade would be "more effective if we had not been under the delusion that we were operating under the United Nations" in Korea adding that after this "we will have to engage in our own wars."

Contending that the United States could furnish troops for the U.N. only after there had been an agreement with other states on a police force, Taft said:
"The President simply usurped authority, in violation of the laws and the constitution, when he sent troops to carry out the resolution of the United Nations in an undeclared war."

Dislikes Ike At Head
It would be better now, Taft said to fight a declared war against the Chinese Communists. He insisted that Europe must take the initiative in rearming. He said he doesn't like the selection of Eisenhower as chief of the North Atlantic Defense Force because he fears that this will be taken as a signal that the whole thing is an American—and not a European—enterprise.

Three Rail Groups

House conferences that the proposed settlement would cost the roads $130,000,000 annually.

The proposal, accepted by railway and top union officials taking part in negotiations—and generally hailed as a three-year peace pact—ran into difficulty when it was presented to regional union organizations for approval.

Plan Week-end Talk
First the engineers, then the trainmen and firemen, and the engineers turned the pact down at meetings of their general assemblies. The fourth union, the Order of Railway Conductors, will hold its meeting in St. Louis Sunday. It, too, is expected to reject the settlement plan.

The three-man National Mediation Board arranged week-end talks with John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, to discuss future moves. Steelman helped work out the original agreement. In announcing they would seek a freight rate increase, traffic officials representing railways in the east, south and west said petitions would be filed in a few days with the Interstate Commerce Commission and state regulatory bodies.

In the event these railroad operating expenses should be further increased, it may be to bring the changed situation to the attention of the commission in a supplementary petition," the announcement said.

Reports Rising Protests

Moscow, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Soviet press today declared there is a rising tide of protest throughout the world against the rearming of Germany. The Communist Party newspaper, Pravda, said "the peoples understand that the demilitarization of Germany has first degree importance in the cause of assuring international peace and security." (The Soviet press apparently referred to the allied proposal to incorporate German units in the Atlantic Pact army.)

since Dec. 30. They also killed or wounded an estimated 7,500 Communist troops.

The fliers also reported destruction of 4,000 buildings, four tanks, three locomotives, five bridges, 23 railroad cars and six warehouses. The air blows picked up speed Saturday. Navy and Air Force fighters and light bombers claimed to have killed or wounded 3,100 Communist troops in the past 24 hours. Two-thirds of the loss was shot up in the hard-pressed central sector.

Stassen Learns a Lot

London, Jan. 6 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, who is flying around the world "calling on a lot of prime ministers," arrived here from South Africa, "tired and with a mass of undigested information." On his flight Stassen has interviewed the prime ministers of Japan, Indonesia, Thailand, India, Pakistan, Israel and South Africa, and numerous other political, military and economic leaders. "It's hard to say, without elaborating the background, whether I am less or more concerned about the future of the world," Stassen said. "But it has been an extremely useful trip. I return with a great deal of information."

Free to Grow Corn, Wheat

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Planting restrictions for 1951 on corn and wheat were lifted yesterday. That means farmers can plant and grow all they want of the two great grain staples. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said the move results from the national emergency and the country's partial mobilization. But Brannan warned farmers that "increased livestock numbers" will need pasture as well as feed. He said each farmer should make sure that in devoting more land to wheat and corn "he is not doing violence to continuing needs for soil conservation."

Crewmen Stall Shipping

Philadelphia, Jan. 6 (AP)—Two sugar refineries were shut down today and more than 6,000 workers were idle as a three-day-old strike of tugboat crewmen stalled shipping in the busy port of Philadelphia. The refineries, employing about 2,500 workers, announced they had suspended operations because raw sugar supplies are tied up aboard strikebound vessels. A total of 32 cargo ships swung at anchor in the Delaware river or could not be moved from the piers as the result of the walkout. Several vessels have already been diverted to other ports.

Find Dynamite Near Track

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 6 (AP)—Two railroad switchmen reported last night they found a charge of dynamite set on the main Southern Pacific track near Phoenix. The railroad men, Joe Hamilton and Harry Graves, told sheriff's deputies the charge consisted of one stick of dynamite, a 35-inch length of fuse and a No. 10 detonating cap. The sheriff's office said the fuse had burned in two places, but failed to reach the charge.

Quake Shakes Capital

Srinagar, Kashmir, Jan. 6 (AP)—Severe earth tremors lasting 20 seconds shook this capital today. Panicky residents darted from their cracking, collapsing houses into open spaces. There was no immediate word of any casualties.

Dewey Will . . .

nor, the attorney general, the majority and minority members of the state Senate and Assembly, the Assembly speaker, the chairmen of the Senate Finance Committee and the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, the chairman of the State Civil Defense Commission, and 12 persons to be appointed by the governor.

The governor's appointees would serve at his pleasure, without salary, but would be permitted to draw expenses. Their names would be submitted to the Senate for approval.

The bill would add five new members to the present Civil Defense Commission. They would be the state commissioners of housing, industry, agriculture and commerce and the state director of veterans affairs.

The commission's existing powers to "provide order and safety in an emergency" would be enlarged and made more precise, Walsh said.

No appropriation is included in the bill for carrying out the preparedness operation. This will be provided for in the regular budget bills submitted before Feb. 1 on the basis of Governor Dewey's annual budget message to the Legislature.

No Estimate of Cost Yet

Walsh said there was no estimate at this time as to the cost. Specifically, the bill would authorize the Defense Council to enter into all types of mutual aid pacts with other states and require all political subdivisions of the state to take part in the defense program. The council also would have authority to:

1. Conserve and restrict the use of essential or scarce products, commodities, materials, goods or services, and suspend "provisions of law which require the use thereof where such suspension is consistent with safety and health."
2. Regulate the distribution, sale or use of food, fuel, clothing and household articles "where the temporary use thereof is necessary because of emergency conditions."

3. Restrict the demolition of buildings or structures and suspend the right to authorize such demolitions, "where such buildings or structures may be useful in the defense effort or to provide necessary housing or other accommodations."
4. Protect or preserve all property, "whether privately or publicly owned, by the owner or person in control thereof, or otherwise."

5. Recruit, enroll, conscript and organize manpower.
6. Authorize and regulate labor business or work on Sundays or legal holidays.
7. Restrict parades or assemblies in order to protect physical safety of persons or property.
8. Maintain or expand schools.
9. Set up licensing and priority systems.

Would Direct Counties

The law also would direct every county, except those within New York city, and every city to prepare and put into effect a civil-defense plan approved by the State C-D Commission. The chief executive officer of each such subdivision would be empowered "to authorize any expenditure necessary" for the operation.

In cities of more than 100,000 population, officers would recruit, train and equip air raid wardens in the ratio of one for every 25 residents, organize an emergency mortuary service capable of handling "at least 80,000 fatalities under disaster conditions," and install suitable public-warning systems.

In case of attack, cities and counties could seize private property, transportation and communication facilities and everything else deemed vital to the defense effort.

Murder Victim's

Leonard Belmore of the Ulster county sheriff's office. Ontario authorities working on the case, who accompanied Webster here on Friday, were Corporal Fred Guyle of the state police Canandaigua barracks; County Investigator Anthony Cecere and Deputy Sheriff's Jack Fennell and P. B. Oakley of Ontario county.

Discarded Own Clothes Too
Cecere said that Webster had driven from Canandaigua to Elmira, Binghamton, Kingston, Albany, Schenectady and Utica after the murder, and had discarded both his own and the victim's clothing and other articles along the route.

He said that Lennox was murdered on December 5, and his body discovered the following day. Webster was apprehended in Utica on December 8 and was arraigned on a first degree murder charge in Ontario county. He was committed to the county jail to await grand jury action on the charge.

Eisenhower . . .

ance ranging from Norway and Britain in the north to Italy in the south. He probably also will talk with American officials in Germany.

'Exploratory' Tour

He has described this first tour in his new role as Atlantic alliance commander as being "exploratory." He wants to get at first hand information on what leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty countries think about the defense program and what they are prepared to do about it. He told a news conference Thursday that he will seek to make sure that he is not "working at cross purposes with anybody."

In the same conference he laid down what other officials said today will undoubtedly be one of the main themes of his talks in Europe. He declared that "unless every sacrifice made by Americans is matched by the Europeans, this thing will not work."

Speed Is Urged

About the same time, substantially the same idea was expressed in London by Charles M. Spofford, Secretary of State Acheson's deputy on the North Atlantic Treaty Council and chairman of that body. Spofford called rearmament progress in Europe disappointing.

ly slow and urged a speed up. These statements plus the debate opened yesterday in Congress by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) on American defense policy appear to indicate a widespread concern in the government over a lack of driving with on the part of the continental European members of the Atlantic Treaty organization to get on with defense preparations.
